

GUYANT AGAIN ELECTED

The Popular Ex-Sheriff is Once More Choice of the People—Balance of Ticket Goes Republican.

With the towns of Alban and Grant and the village of Rosholt to hear from, but which will not materially change the result, Frank Guyant, the Democratic candidate for sheriff, and whose name was placed over on the fifth column under the head of "Independent," due to the short-sightedness of a majority of the last legislature, has a majority of 151 over his worthy opponent, Wm. Brunner. Mr. Guyant's victory is mainly due to his own individual efforts, he having made a personal canvass through every town in the county, visiting as many homes as it was possible, making new friends, renewing old friendships and thereby securing the support of the voters who insured his election. The record left when he retired from office nearly two years ago, was also a strong factor that brought about his victory at yesterday's battle of ballots. A. J. Kubisiak, the Democratic nominee for register of deeds, also made a gallant fight, but goes down in defeat with the balance of the ticket, except Mr. Guyant.

Outside of Wisconsin, Michigan, Nebraska and Kansas, every thing seems to have gone Democratic, including New York, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Connecticut and Ohio, all of which states elect Democratic governors and state officers, and the next house of Congress will also be composed of a majority of Democrats.

Milwaukee county has been carried by the Socialists and Victor Berger is elected to Congress, the only member of that party who will occupy a seat at Washington during the coming two years. Herewith we publish the vote cast in the various towns, villages and wards as far as they could be secured at the hour of going to press:

World's Temperance Sunday.

The World's Temperance Sunday will be observed at St. Paul's M. E. church next Sunday. At the morning service at 10:45 o'clock Rev. T. W. North, the pastor, will take for his theme "The Church, the Light of the World." At the evening service the address will be on the subject "The Temperance Reform,—shall the church in its attitude toward the liquor traffic stand for prohibition or local option?" The temperance reform has come to the front; it is an important question of the age. It is being studied and discussed by statesmen, professors, business men and philanthropists of all kinds. The discussion Sunday evening will be candid and without abuse and people of all shades of opinion are invited.

The Sunday School lessons will be given at 9:45 a. m. and the Epworth League services will be conducted at 6:30 in the evening.

Sudden Death at Fremont.

T. J. Pitt, of the town of Eau Pleine, was called to Fremont the first of last week by the sudden death of his sister, Mrs. Geo. W. Pitt, whose demise resulted from heart trouble. Mrs. Pitt, who was 64 years of age, was about the house as usual when she was taken ill without warning and passed away in a few minutes.

Mary Pitt was born in New York state, but had made her home at Fremont most of her life. She married a cousin, Geo. W. Pitt, and is survived by her husband, three sons and one daughter, besides six brothers, Horace, Henry, George, James and Ben of Fremont and Thos. J. Pitt of Eau Pleine, and three sisters, Mrs. Hattie Lapham of Winnebago, Mrs. Betsy Eaton of Phillips and Mrs. Ida Averill of Fremont.

Local News Notes.

Adam R. Bentley, the lumberman and real estate dealer who lives twelve miles northeast of the city, on the banks of the Plover, transacted business here on Monday. Mr. Bentley has a saw mill, succeeding his father, the late S. Y. Bentley, and he expects to log quite a quantity of timber during the coming winter, including several hundred thousand feet of white pine.

Stevens Point Council No. 1170, Knights of Columbus, will hold their fourth annual banquet at Rothman's hall, next Wednesday evening, Nov. 16th, at 6:30 o'clock. The council has issued invitations and it is expected that a large gathering of ladies and gentlemen will be in attendance. Weber's orchestra will furnish music and a program of toasts will follow the banquet.

Guy C. Hammel of the J. B. Ford Co., Wyandotte, Mich., manufacturers of the famous Wyandotte soda, will spend the balance of the week with Jas. J. Ward at his laundry plant. Mr. Hammel brings with him the latest sanitary methods of washing and starching clothes. This should be of interest to the housewives of our city as Mr. Ward intends to adopt Mr. Hammel's methods in the future.

Andrew Booth, who left for the west between four and five years ago, returned last Saturday and is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Booth, on the North Side. Andrew had been located in Montana for some time, having charge of a pile driver on the western extension of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, and has since been likewise employed by the government in their extensive land irrigation enterprises.

STRICKEN WITH APOPLEXY

Prof. Jas. C. Monaghan, While Delivering a Lecture at Portage, Receives Stroke—Is Improving.

Prof. J. C. Monaghan, one of the best known educators, orators and statesmen in this country, whose name is known from ocean to ocean, and who has very many friends and admirers in Stevens Point, having delivered lectures here on two occasions, suffered a stroke of apoplexy at Portage last Friday evening. He was in the midst of an address when stricken and was immediately removed to the Bentley hospital, where he is being cared for. His wife arrived on Monday and the latest reports are to the effect that Prof. Monaghan is somewhat improved. All hope and pray for his ultimate recovery.

In speaking of the sad affair the Democrat says that he opened the lecture course there and was to have delivered a lecture on "America, the Land of Opportunities." He had commenced his discourse by saying that he had talked with a number of representative Portage people during the afternoon and was very much pleased with the civic pride shown here and that he would before his scheduled lecture give a short talk on "The Other Side," meaning the manner of living in other countries. He had talked perhaps twenty minutes, the last five of which the audience had noticed that his words did not come with the ease that was so generally characteristic of him, but seemed to talk low and fast, the words running into one another, so that it was extremely difficult to understand and follow him. Then came a sort of stammering and shortly after, although he had again been able to talk a bit more fluently, he suddenly stepped back and told the audience he could smell gas. Then he staggered backward to a table upon which were a pitcher of water and a glass. Prof. Monaghan attempted to pour some water into the glass, but was unable to do so. "No, I never drink anything," he said as if answering the thought that someone might think that he was intoxicated. While he stood swaying at the side of the table Dr. F. T. Gorton leaped upon the platform and beckoned to him to leave the stage. Prof. Monaghan at once understood and virtually tottered off the stage, where he was assisted by Dr. Gorton and some of the opera house attendants. Dr. Bentley and Dr. LaPlout and Atty. D. H. Grady also went to the aid of Mr. Monaghan.

The audience was sitting very quietly, a pin drop could have been heard as the auditors were listening intently to every word that Mr. Monaghan was saying. He had just finished telling a humorous story and was talking about a nine-year-old boy. When he seemed to stagger, many thought that he was about to take off the actions of this boy, and when he stopped and asked about the gas the audience seemed dazed by his action and for fully thirty seconds failed to realize the plight of the unfortunate man.

The stroke was caused by the bursting of a blood vessel in the left side of the brain. His right side is completely affected and the speech center partially so. His eyes are not impaired in the least.

Prof. Monaghan's home is in New York city. He is a member of the Knights of Columbus and Edward L. Hearn, head of the New York Knights, was notified by Atty. Grady by telephone of Mr. Monaghan's condition with the request that he notify Mrs. Monaghan. He was formerly professor of commerce at the University of Wisconsin and later was in charge of a division in the bureau of statistics in the United States department of labor and commerce. He has also been connected with Notre Dame University and other educational institutions and was consul to Germany under the Roosevelt administration, but resigned to return to the land of his choice. He is a self-made man and as a boy of fourteen commenced work in an eastern mill.

He Used a Hammer.

Unable to furnish bail in the sum of $500 on the charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm, Fred Hubbard was committed to jail, Monday afternoon, by Justice Carpenter. Hubbard was arrested by Sheriff Berry on complaint of Wm. Bunn, a South Side saloonkeeper, who alleges that after he ejected one John Dominick from his place, Sunday evening, the latter's wife appeared soon thereafter, and while he was in the act of treating her in a like manner, Hubbard secured a hammer and struck Bunn, cutting a gash in the forehead, over which he will wear a bandage for several days. Dr. Smiley was called to dress the wound, and Hubbard, who entered a plea of not guilty, will have an examination in court on Saturday.

THREE HAPPY COUPLES

Pretty Weddings in Stevens Point, Eau Pleine and Sharon, All Take Place Within the Past Few Days.

BLANCHARD-SHERMAN.

Miss Helen R. Sherman and George W. Blanchard, an attorney now located at Edgerton, were married last Saturday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene A. Sherman, 1135 Clark street. It was one of the prettiest events of this character that have taken place in Stevens Point in several years, every detail being carried out perfectly. Upwards of fifty guests were present, including friends of the young couple from Marshfield, Colby, Madison and more distant cities.

Before the wedding party made its appearance Miss Mabel Ennor sang very beautifully the solo by Aiyward, "Love's Coronation," with piano and violin accompaniment by Miss Rosetta Johnson and Roy Ennor.

Shortly after the appointed hour, 8:30 o'clock, Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Miss Johnson and Mr. Ennor, and to the accompaniment of the beautiful strains, the principals and their attendants slowly marched down the winding stairs in the following order: Rev. C. I. Andrews of Waupun, the officiating clergyman and an uncle of the bride; little Eleanor Sherman, a sister of the bride, bearing a rose in which was enclosed the wedding ring; Miss Sadie Buck, maid of honor, and Ottmar Falge of Manitowoc, best man; the bride and groom.

Beneath a bower of cosmos and ferns in a corner of the front parlor Rev. Andrews pronounced the fateful words. After the showering of congratulations and good wishes, an informal reception was held. Refreshments were served in courses by Misses Beulah Nelson, Anna Clark, Mabel Ennor, Winnifred Nelson, Merle Raymond and Irene Sherman.

The bridal gown was a handsome creation of white satin. Miss Sherman carried a bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley, which later in the evening was thrown from the stairs balcony and caught by Miss Ada Moen. At one of the pre-nuptial events given a few days before, Miss Ada was the lucky finder of a ring concealed in a cake. These incidents are said to be significant.

Mr. and Mrs. Blanchard boarded the north bound limited train for a short stay at Marshfield and Colby, returning here Tuesday afternoon, and within a few days will go to Edgerton, where a completely furnished home awaits their occupancy. They were recipients of a dazzling display of silver, cut glass and other beautiful wedding gifts.

The groom is a son of H. J. Blanchard, postmaster at Colby and one of that town's prominent citizens. George graduated from the law department at Madison university last spring.

During his four years' course at the state institution he was prominently identified with the school's activities, being assistant editor of the alumni magazine, took part in the Nebraska-Wisconsin inter-collegiate debate and the Illinois-Wisconsin debate; was a member of the Senior honorary society, Iron Cross, and of Monastics. The young man is a member of Phi Alpha Tau, an oratorical fraternity, and of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, one of the social organizations. During a portion of his university life, George was a member of the student court. Personally he is a prince of good fellows and is deserving of prosperity and happiness.

The bride is a very charming young lady, the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman. The family moved here from Plover a number of years ago, Helen taking a course at the Normal, from which institution she graduated in 1907. For the next couple of years the young lady taught at Colby, making her temporary home with Mayor and Mrs. Lyons, by whom she is loved almost as an own daughter. That her married life may be ideal is the sincere wish of all who know her.

Guests present at the wedding from a distance included Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Vedder, F. R. Upham, Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Vedder and Charles Albert Vedder of Marshfield; Mrs. H. J. Blanchard, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Blanchard, Jr., Misses Pearl and Bernice Blanchard, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lyons and daughter, Mary, Colby; Mrs. A. O. Soule, Minneapolis; Mrs. A. D. Hall, Oshkosh; Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Wellington, Rindge, N. H.; Miss Maude Andrews, Escanaba, Mich.; Forster Smith, Grand Rapids; Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Lutter, Milwaukee; Miss Beulah Nelson, Wild Rose.

MUELLER-EIDEN.

The marriage of Miss Lena Frances Eiden of Sharon and Julius Mueller of Tomahawk was solemnized at St. Martin's church in Sharon township at 9 o'clock this morning. Rev. Geo. A. Schommer officiating. Miss Vena Thielman and Peter St. Peter, both of Tomahawk, performed the duties of bridesmaid and best man, respectively. Miss Eiden's gown was of white chiffon over silk. She wore a veil and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses. Miss Thielman's dress was of pink messaline. She wore a picture hat and her bouquet was of chrysanthemums.

A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Eiden, only relatives of the contracting parties being present. Mr. and Mrs. Mueller will take train No. 5 on the Soo line this evening, going to Wausau, where they will visit a day or two at the home of the groom's parents before proceeding to Tomahawk, where they will immediately go to housekeeping in a completely furnished home.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eiden and has always lived in the town of Sharon. She is a very attractive young lady, the possession of a happy, sunny disposition and bears with her to the northern city the well wishes of hundreds of friends throughout Portage county.

Mr. Mueller is the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mueller of Wausau, his father being a prominent contractor there, and Julius is a native of Marathon county. For the past three years he has made his home at Tomahawk, filling the position of meat cutter in the Robt. Thielman meat market. He is a bright appearing young man and made a very favorable impression upon all whom he has met during frequent visits to this section.

Among the relatives who attended from a distance were Mrs. Henry Mueller, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Mueller of Wausau, Misses Ada, Vena and Elda Thielman of Tomahawk, N. J. Eiden and family of Arnott, Misses Susie Duffy and Catherine Schommer of Chilton. The latter young lady played the wedding march as the bridal couple entered the church.

MASLOFF-MARCHEL.

At St. Francis Catholic church, Knowlton, last Monday morning, the marriage of Miss Ella Marchel of Eau Pleine and John B. Masloff of Junction City, was solemnized. Rev. F. Wojak of Grand Rapids pronounced the words that made them man and wife. Many friends from all over the country were present to witness the interesting and impressive ceremony and attend the nuptial high mass. The bridal party as they entered the church made a very handsome appearance. The bride was charmingly attired in a gown of white peau de cashmere, wore a bridal veil, carried a large bouquet of white chrysanthemums, and was preceded by her sister, Miss Grace, who was maid of honor and who was attired in yellow pongee and carried a large bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums. The bridesmaid, Miss Eleanor Masloff of Marshfield, sister of the groom, was gowned in cream nuns veiling. Harry Marchel, brother of the bride, was groomsmen. As the bridal party entered the church, Mrs. George G. Knoller played the Mendelssohn wedding march and as the bridal party returned from the altar after the marriage ceremony she sang the Bridal Song from Lohengrin and was assisted in the rest of the mass by Mrs. M. H. Altenburg. After the church ceremony the wedding party and their guests repaired to the home of the bride's father, John Marchel in Eau Pleine, where a most elaborate wedding dinner was served in courses and which was very capably preended over by Miss Maggie Flotbau of Milwaukee, who has had much experience in the art of serving. Music was furnished for the afternoon's recreation, and in the evening a dancing party was given in E. Topham's hall at Dancy, that was attended by several hundred, people being present from various places, and a most enjoyable time was had.

The bride is a daughter of John Marchel, who is one of Eau Pleine's oldest and most respected residents. She is a young lady that has been a great favorite of all, the possessor of good sound sense, capable, kind-hearted and accomplished, and has hosts of friends all over the country who wish and hope for her a long and happy wedded life. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Masloff of Marshfield, who are prominent residents in their home town. Until recently he was engaged in the furniture and undertaking business at Junction City. He is a young man of good business ability, prominent and popular as a citizen, and will no doubt make a good husband for the lady he selected as his helpmate. They were remembered with many beautiful presents in linens, silver, china and cut glass, as a slight token of the high regard and esteem in which they are held.

Have Gone East.

John J. Ferrell, who has been a respected resident of this city for the past four years, and whose wife recently passed away, left last Friday for Chicago, where he will visit relatives for a few weeks and will then join his son, Fred M., at Worcester, Mass., where both expect to remain indefinitely. The latter gentleman, who has also been numbered among our most esteemed residents until a few months ago, when he went east, departed for his new home Tuesday afternoon, intending to stop for a couple of days in Chicago enroute. The Messrs. Ferrell have made numerous friends during the few years they have lived in Stevens Point, Fred M. being an active member of Stevens Point Lodge No. 641, B. P. O. E., and he will continue to retain his membership here for the present at least. He is a bright, energetic young business man, having been engaged as a traveling salesman for years, and will no doubt make good in his new position, that of sales manager for an important and growing establishment at Worcester. He expects to visit his former Wisconsin home in a few months, and the more often the greater the pleasure for all who know him here.

Die at Mosinee.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Quinn of this city were called to Mosinee last week by the death of their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Geo. Quinn, who passed away after a long illness with tuberculosis. The deceased was 28 years of age and was the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aug. Tigges, old residents of Mosinee, where she had lived since a small child. She was married about three years ago to Geo. Quinn of this city and to them one child was born, who passed away when about one year old.

The funeral of Mrs. Quinn was held on Thursday from the Catholic church at Mosinee and was attended by many relatives and friends of the respective families.

AMATEUR THEATRICALS

"My Lord in Livery" to be Repeated at Normal School Next Friday Evening.

"My Lord in Livery," the one act play given with so much success during summer school, will be given again under the direction of Prof. Smith, in the Normal assembly room Friday night. Last summer's audience were unanimous in declaring the play to be exceptionally bright and clever. Among some of its features are the young ladies' masquerade, the butler's predicament, and a charming minuet by the burglar and the lady. The stage setting will be unusually good. An admission price of 15 cents will be charged. Play begins at 8:15.

For a Good Cause.

The Daughters of Rebekah will hold a bazaar and serve a 25 cent chicken pie supper at Odd Fellows' hall, 120 N. Third street, Thursday, Nov. 17th, one-half the proceeds from these affairs will be given to the new hospital fund. Therefore, it is hoped that they will be well patronized, as the cause is a deserving one. The bazaar will be open all afternoon and such articles as home made candy, aprons, fancy work, etc., will be on sale and besides patrons may patronize the fishing pond, fortune telling booth and bargain counter. The supper will be served from 5 to 8 o'clock and the menu will be announced next week.

Took Prominent Parts.

At the annual Wisconsin State Teachers' convention held at Milwaukee last Friday and Saturday, Chas. C. Parlin, principal of the Wausau High school, was chosen as president and Mrs. Mary D. Bradford of Kenosha, formerly connected with the Stevens Point Normal, was elected as a member of the executive committee for a term of four years. Pres. John F. Sims of our Normal, Miss Judith Wadleigh, now supervisor of drawing in the Wausau schools, and Miss Margaret Ashmun, a graduate of the Normal, took prominent parts in the convention.

Going to Arizona.

Geo. Cate of Stockton expects to leave that station next Monday for Phoenix, Ari., going to the southwest with a car of live stock and household goods. His family will follow a couple of weeks later and will be accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Cate of Amherst, who expect to spend the winter there. Miss Ruth Cate may also go down at the same time from Milwaukee, where she has been visiting during the past few weeks. George recently bought a tract of rich farming land near the outskirts of Phoenix and immediately upon his arrival will begin the improvement of the property.

CURING CATARRH

Accept Our Advice and Try This Remedy at Our Risk.

Catarrh is a disease of the mucous membrane. The mucous membrane is, one may say, the interior lining of the body. Catarrh therefore may exist in any part of the system.

When the catarrhal poison attacks the mucous membrane, inflammation and congestion are produced and nature fails to throw off the accumulated poisons. The organ which has been affected ceases to perform its proper function as nature intended it should. The result is, complication upon complication, which may lead to other even more serious afflictions.

We honestly believe Rexall Mucutone will do wonders toward overcoming catarrh. It is made from the prescription of an eminent physician who made a long study of catarrh, and his great success with this remedy was an enviable one.

We want you if you are a sufferer from catarrh in any form, to give Rexall Mucutone a thorough trial. Use it with regularity and persistence for a reasonable time, then if you are not satisfied, come back and tell us and without question or formality we will hand back to you every cent you paid us. This is certainly the fairest offer that any one could make and should attest our sincerity of purpose. It comes in two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain it only at—The Rexall Store. Alex. Krembs Jr., Drug Co., prescription experts, corner Main street and Strong's avenue.

Chicago Stock Show.

This great show will be held on the dates of November 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th, 30th and December 1st, 2d and 3rd at the Union Stock Yards, Chicago. The entries are greater than ever before, the quality of the stock better, and the interest among farmers, breeders and feeders keener than at any previous time.

It may be interesting to state that the International Live Stock Exposition, from a comparatively small beginning, eleven years ago, has assumed such importance in the live stock world, as to render its annual occurrence an absolute necessity, not only on account of its being the high court of appeal, but because it sets the stamp of approval upon those of our domesticated animals that are most in demand, and establishes a standard among stock that must be lived up to in order to realize for the breeder, feeder and farmer the highest price for his product.

The day of the inferior animal, the slow feeder and the tardy money getter, is passed and in order to succeed and obtain the best results in the shortest possible time, stockmen must breed for the types set by this great international tribunal; follow its mandates, adhere to its principles, and abide by the findings of its judges, in order to breed that which is best, reaches maturity the quickest, and realizes the highest price in the shortest time.

Dr. W. H. Walton Dead.

Dr. Wm. H. Walton, who had practiced massage and electrical treatment at Appleton for the past few years, died in that city a few days ago. Dr. Walton was born at St. Andrews, N. B., about 60 years ago. His parents were pioneer Stevens Pointers, coming here when he was a child, and he spent his boyhood and early manhood days in this city. He is survived by a son, Robt. A. Walton of LaCrosse, a daughter, Miss Elizabeth Walton of Chicago, a sister, Mrs. Seeth Bowe of Oshkosh, and a brother, Robt. Walton, who lives in Minnesota.

During the Old White School Association reunion a couple of years ago, and of which organization he was a member, Dr. Walton spent a couple of weeks visiting with boyhood friends in this city.

MAKES ANNUAL REPORT

Work Done During 1910 Reviewed in Special Issue of Anti-Tuberculosis Society Monthly Journal.

The annual report of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association is contained in the latest issue of the Crusader, the monthly publication of the society. The report is a detailed accounting to the public, which by the purchase of Christmas stamps last December has made possible the campaign against consumption in Wisconsin.

The summary shows that surveys or investigations were conducted with excellent results in nine cities; 650 unregistered cases were discovered and 900 living cases and deaths studied. The educational propaganda was furthered by weekly bulletins to the newspapers of Wisconsin; by the publication of The Crusader; by the distribution of 150,000 pieces of literature, 8,000 factory posters, 100,000 dodgers in the interests of spitting; 134 public lectures with a total attendance of nearly 65,000; the distribution of standard works in libraries, and in many other ways.

Under "General Campaigns" it is shown that the association started the campaign for an open-air school in Milwaukee, now definitely promised for next year; increased the registration of cases of consumption by circular letters to physicians and by arousing general interest; carried on a successful campaign for the abolition of the common drinking cup and is now engaged in a campaign against the filthy common roller towel in public places. Other campaigns were for better factory sanitation, for street sprinkling and oiling as health measures, and against the exposure of foodstuffs to filth.

To carry on the work during 1911, the association will again sell Christmas stickers this year. It is hoped to duplicate or better the successful campaign in 1909, when 2,300,000 greetings were sold.

Copies of the annual report will be sent free to any one interested upon application to the offices at Milwaukee.

Married Wednesday Evening.

Miss Florence Docka, of this city, and J. Frederick Severens, of Montevideo, Minn., were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Docka, 432 Ellis street, last Wednesday evening, Rev. E. M. Thompson, rector of the Episcopal church, officiating. The wedding was a quiet event, those present being relatives and immediate friends of the young couple, who were attended by Miss Anna Johnson of Stevens Point, and Will Borene of Montevideo. The ceremony was followed by a reception, in which those present heartily joined, after which a four course dinner was served.

The bride is one of Stevens Point's most excellent and esteemed young ladies, whose home has always been in this city. Two years ago she spent the summer as trimmer in a millinery store at Montevideo, and at that time the acquaintance was formed that culminated in the ceremony performed last Wednesday evening. The groom is the editor and publisher of the Commercial, a progressive weekly newspaper at Montevideo, for which city they left the same night to take up the duties and responsibilities of married life, followed by well wishes for long happiness.

Gold Coins.

Gold pieces are the only coins of the United States which are worth their face value intrinsically. A double eagle contains $20 worth of gold without counting the one-tenth part of copper.

Children in China.

In China children are brought up almost as if they were deaf and dumb. A Chinese boy or girl will sit in the presence of father or mother for hours and never say a word unless spoken to. The Chinese boy who would speak to a caller at the house unless he had permission would be considered a most impudent rascal.

Tea Smoking.

Tea smoking is extremely poisonous and unpleasant in its effects. In a very short time it produces nausea, palpitation of the heart and acute trembling in the limbs.

The St. Lawrence.

Vessels of 4,000 tons can ascend the St. Lawrence river to Montreal, a distance of 1,000 miles from the sea. Only one other river in the world, the Amazon, is navigable to such a distance for craft as large.

Powerful British Windmill.

What is claimed as the largest and most powerful windmill in Great Britain has just been completed at Willesden, where its capacity is being tried under varying conditions. It is intended for a farm near Bristol, its use there being to generate electricity, supply power to run crushing machinery and work the pumps. From the trials made it is said this new wind machine is capable of generating sufficient electricity for 300 lights, to crush oats and grind maize, work an electric lift, cook the food and heat a room at a cost of 1/2d a unit.

Verse Reform.

The printer is a strange concern. His type is wrong-side to. And all he does is backward from The way he ought to do.

E. g., for instance, when he sets A poem up, you know, He even out the left hand side And lets the right side go.

But isn't that a foolish way? You'd think that every time His lines came out unequally He'd even out his time.

Now, if my method comes in style, Dear reader, when you see The lines lined up all straight and trim You'll know it's poetry.

SOUTH SIDE AND RAILROAD

Personal and News Items of More or Less Importance to Readers of The Gazette.

Mrs. Henry Gormley, who had been spending a couple of weeks very pleasantly among former neighbors in this city and attending a reunion of relatives at Amherst, returned to her home in Milwaukee last Monday morning.

Mrs. Amanda Duncan left for Milwaukee last Saturday afternoon, where she will spend the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Wright, who keeps a rooming house at 519 Sycamore street. Mrs. Duncan had been here for several months with her mother, Mrs. Wm. Zorn, who is in very poor health. The latter is now living with her son, Carl Zorn.

Mrs. John Tepp and son Joseph departed for their home in Milwaukee today, the former after a visit of a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kiecholt, 117 Blaine street, and numerous other friends, while Joe had been here about two weeks. The Tepp family moved to Milwaukee several months ago, where Mr. Tepp holds a good position with the American Oxidic Co., manufacturers of hydrogen, oxygen and cutting machinery, and while all are well pleased with their new home, Stevens Point, where they lived for twenty years, is still home.

P. J. Conroy, manager of the Phoenix Wall Paper mills, is the happy father of a ten pound boy, which was born to himself and wife at Joliet, Ill., last Wednesday.

Henry Dagneau has returned from Bowman, S. D., and is temporarily employed as operator at the Soo passenger depot during the illness of Ray Clark. The latter young man has been confined to his home with tonsillitis.

Conductor John C. Leary, who had the distinction of running the first "velvet special" on the Soo from Chicago to Abotsford, has moved his family from North Fond du Lac to Stevens Point. Mr. Leary is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Moses Leary of Custer.

Wm. Marquardt has sold to Chas. G. Sturtevant the south 30 feet of lots 10 and 11, block 7, Central addition, just east of Michigan avenue. The real purchaser of this property is the Soo railroad company and it is supposed to have been bought for the purpose of placing coal chutes thereon.

Mrs. L. J. Seeger was down from Abotsford Tuesday on a shopping trip and to visit friends in town. Mr. Seeger is trainmaster on the Soo, his territory at present being west and north of Abotsford, but he expects to be transferred to this city when division changes are made about Jan. 1st.

A switch engine in charge of Engineer Potter and Fireman Ward was sent from Fond du Lac Tuesday morning and will do duty in the local yards under the general direction of Chas. Scholl. The two engines heretofore in use in the company's yards have been unable to do the large amount of work required and at times practically every one of the sidetracks has been filled with cars.

G. A. Manthey, assistant superintendent of bridges and buildings on the Soo's Chicago division, spent Monday night and part of yesterday in this city, coming down to inspect the work now in progress at the roundhouse and on the new sidetracks. Mr. and Mrs. Manthey only a few days ago returned from the national gathering of the American Bridge and Building Association held at Denver, Col. They also visited Salt Lake City and other western towns while away. Another former Stevens Point resident at the convention was Phil C. Jacobs, who is now with the Johns-Manville Co., a big manufacturing concern.

Sunday School Association.

The Portage County Sunday School Association met at the South Side chapel in this city on Friday and Saturday last, closing on Saturday evening. An excellent program was carried out each day and was one of the best attended gatherings ever held by that organization. On Friday the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Pres.—A. D. Palmer, Almond. Vice Pres.—Fred Fox, Meehan. Sec.—Mrs. U. J. Puariae, Stevens Point.

Cor. Sec.—Miss M. Harroun, Plover. Treas.—Mrs. D. W. Sawyer, Belmont.

Married Tuesday Morning.

Miss Loretta T. Johnson of Sturgeon Bay, and W. R. Bassford of Regent, N. D., were married at St. Stephen's parsonage, Rev. W. J. Rice officiating, at 10 o'clock Tuesday forenoon. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Powell, the latter being a sister of the bride, at whose home a wedding breakfast was served after the ceremony.

The bride is a handsome young lady, one of Sturgeon Bay's fairest daughters, and has made a number of friends during her visits to Stevens Point. The groom is an energetic young business man, a general merchant at Regent, where they will make their home after a bridal tour through the west, leaving here the same afternoon.

Bargain in Land.

Your chance to buy 140 acres south of Almond, with good frame house, barn and granary, also windmill and tank; black prairie soil. If taken in 10 days, $40 per acre. A. E. Dafoe, Stevens Point, Wis.

For Sale.

A five acre tract of land on the Wausau road, just north of the city limits. Land well improved and a good bargain can be secured. Inquire of Owen & Hanna, Stevens Point, Wis., Rothman block.

An Opportunity.

A man and family who desire a good farm home at Junction City, with good monthly wages, and know how to take care of cows and other stock, will find it to their advantage by calling upon or addressing Jacob Skibba, Junction City, Wis.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Articles and Items of News that Appeared in the Columns of The Gazette, Quarter of a Century Ago Today.

A little son put in its appearance at the home of John Kuklinski on Sunday morning last.

H. E. Moors and family have moved here from Hancock and are living on Plover street.

An 11 pound boy, the first son in the family, arrived at the home of Will Krembs on Brown street, last Saturday noon.

M. W. Doyle left for Eagle River last Monday, where he will commence cutting roads and building additional shanties for Bosworth & Reilly's second camp.

At the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Cole, on Nov. 7, 1885, Miss Mattie A. Cole and Ellsworth Hoile were married by Rev. R. W. Bosworth.

Peter Vaney, Jr., a boy about 16 years of age, accidentally shot himself through the palm of his left hand, last Tuesday morning, while carelessly handling a revolver.

F. B. Lamoreux returned from Milwaukee the first of the week, where he had been receiving treatment for his eyes, which had become affected from over-work attending to his duties as clerk of the court.

W. H. Collins has purchased about one million, five hundred feet of pine timber on the Plover river, 16 miles from this city, which he will cut this winter. He has moved his family there to remain during the season.

Mrs. Nicholas Lauer died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Juving, at Amherst, last Monday, aged 66 years. Besides her daughter, she is survived by her husband and four sons, Charles, Andrew, Henry and Jacob, all of St. Paul.

Miss Nellie Moore of this city, who is teaching school about three-quarters of a mile west of Little Black, near Medford, had a narrow escape from being run over by a train, while crossing a bridge on her way to school, one day last week. Fortunately by springing to the side of the bridge while the freight was passing, she escaped without injury.

Geo. Stevens, after whom this city is named, is now a resident of San Jose Mission, Cal., about 16 miles from the city of San Jose. He owns hundreds of acres of very productive fruit land and is extensively engaged in the manufacture of grape wines, having recently erected a factory and store room capable of holding 40,000,000 gallons. He is said to be worth over $4,000,000, but the hand of Time has long since whitened his locks.

Tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the new residence of the groom's parents, John Lutz and wife, at McDill, will be solemnized the marriage of their oldest son, Charles, to Miss Matilda Igler, the ceremony to be performed by John Stumpf, justice of the peace. The young lady came here from Wausau a few years ago and Mr. Lutz was engaged for a time in the meat business with his father, but in future the newly married couple will make their home at the Farmer's Home, McDill.

At St. Stephen's church at 9:30 o'clock this morning a double wedding occurred, the ceremonies being performed by Rev. Father July. The interested parties were John Shea and Miss Julia Reddan and Edward Houlehan and Miss Nora Shea. Mr. Shea is connected with the firm of Monnell & Shea, meat market proprietors of this city, and his bride is a native of the town of Stockton. Mr. Houlehan is proprietor of a hotel at Mosinee and his bride, like her brother, Mr. Shea, has always made this city her home. Both couples left for Mosinee this afternoon the latter to remain and the former to spend about a week.

Big Contract at Rothschild.

J. Rollin Gray left for Rothschild, the paper mill town just below Wausau, last Monday morning, where he has the contract for putting a system of water pipes around the immense paper and pulp mill now being completed there. Mr. Gray put in a system of sewer and water in the new village during the past season.

THE SELLERS MAKING GOOD

Improvements and Additions at Local Hotel—New Part May be Added Next Spring.

Eugene Willard and his crew of carpenters are now at work at The Sellers, remodeling four rooms in the basement, which will be occupied as sleeping quarters by some of the help employed at this hotel. A private stairway is also being erected in the rear part of the house to connect with two of the new rooms. The latter will also be supplied with furnace heat and electric lighted.

Several rooms on the third floor of the building are being re-decorated and furnished with costly rugs, iron beds and the best of mattresses. The other furnishings are in keeping and of even better material than the second floor rooms.

Among the other improvements just added are the installing of telephones in each room and the purchase of individual writing desks. Rope fire escapes have been added and liquid fire extinguishers placed in different parts of the building for use in case of necessity. Kirsling Bros. have been given the contract to make and install iron balconies at the front and rear of the building, each of them being of sufficient length so that they can be entered from two windows. A three inch standpipe has been built from the rear basement to a point above the roof, the purpose of this being also to guard against the destruction of the building by fire.

Mr. Sellers has taken an option for fifty feet of frontage on the east side of the hotel and has already secured preliminary plans for an addition which may be erected next spring to contain 27 rooms, each of which will be supplied with bath and hot and cold water. It is the intention to erect an elevator in the new part. The Sellers has enjoyed a good business since opening up a few months ago, and its patronage is fast increasing.

WAS ON HIS FIRST TRIP

C. D. Miller, Traveling Salesman From Kalamazoo, Passes Away at The Sellers After Two Weeks' Illness.

C. D. Miller, traveling representative for the Wm. Shakespeare, Jr., fishing tackle company of Kalamazoo, Mich., who was taken ill at The Sellers two weeks ago last Monday, and whose serious illness was mentioned in these columns last week, died Sunday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock. During his illness with peritonitis, Mr. Miller suffered great pain, and death came as a relief. He seemed to improve, however, until a relapse set in on Saturday night.

The deceased gentleman was 34 years of age, and had been in the employ of the above named company for about five years, holding an important position in the factory, and this was his first trip on the road.

The third day after being taken ill, when his condition began to assume a serious aspect, his wife was sent for and remained at his side to the last. Others connected with the plant were also here at times, including Herman Vatten, the manager, who took charge of caring for and shipping the remains to Kalamazoo. Mr. Miller's father and sister and a sister of Mrs. Miller also arrived here Monday morning, too late to find him alive. He was a bright man, with a promising future.

During his illness nothing was left undone for his recovery, three of our local physicians visiting him several times each day. Besides his wife, parents, sisters and brothers, he leaves one son, 13 years old. The body was taken to Kalamazoo, the home of his birth, Monday night, for burial.

Called Here for Funeral.

Mrs. Marion Parmeter arrived here last Sunday morning from Minneapolis to attend the funeral of her old friend, Mrs. O. B. Foster. She returned to her Minnesota home on this morning's train. Mrs. Parmeter was a girlhood resident of Stevens Point and will be well remembered by our pioneers as Miss Marion Earle.

A. L. Smongeski spent last Friday at Fond du Lac, where he conducted what is known in legal parlance as the adverse examination of Walter Gleason, who was engineer of the train which ran into and badly hurt J. D. Langosky, as he was crossing the railroad bridge a year ago last Thanksgiving. Mr. Langosky has commenced action for damages against the railroad company and retained Mr. Smongeski as his attorney.

Rev. W. J. Rice, pastor of St. Stephen's church, left today to spend about three weeks in the south. He will spend next week at New Orleans, where a Catholic congress will be held and he will represent the Green Bay diocese. Thereafter he will visit at Biloxi, Miss., and other points of interest. During Father Rice's absence the spiritual welfare of the local congregation will be looked after by a clergyman from Duck Creek, Brown county.

Dr. John D. McGregor, of Chicago, spent Monday in the city, coming up on business in connection with the homestead at the corner of Clark and Pine streets. An offer had been made for the purchase of the property, but owing to the bright outlook for Stevens Point's future, he concluded that it is a good time to buy rather than sell. Dr. McGregor left here 16 years ago to take up the study of medicine and has been located in Chicago ever since, meeting with good success.

IRONCLAD CASTE.

Its Rule Among the Hindus Absolute and Unchangeable.

THE POWER OF THE BRAHMAN

All the Wealth of the World Would Not Enable a Lower Caste Hindu to Wed into His Family or Touch His Hand—Tyrannical Social Division.

Caste distinction in India is a thing difficult for a foreigner to comprehend. All the racial or religious distinctions which separate European nations from each other and divide them within themselves do not equal the number of classes into which the Hindus are divided by what is known as "caste."

The 200,000,000 Hindus are made up of diverse racial elements and speak about nineteen developed languages and over 100 dialects. They are again divided into over 3,000 castes, most of them with subcastes. One of these castes, the Brahmins, is split up into more than 800 subcastes, of which none will intermarry and few will eat together.

The term "caste" includes so many things that it is difficult to define it. There are, however, two properties essential to a true caste—first, there is no entry except by birth; second, marriage outside the caste is absolutely forbidden. To preserve the purity and maintain the exclusiveness of the society many minute rules of conduct, many restrictions on food and many ceremonial observances are imposed on the members and enforced by penalties which cannot be evaded, against which there is no appeal and which in extreme cases follow the offender beyond the grave.

But that is not all. The relations of castes to each other are as much a matter of religious observance as the rules for their internal regulation. The Brahmins are the highest admittedly and undoubtedly superior to all the rest. After them come those who are acknowledged to be twice born. The less honored follow in a graduated descent until the untouchable and unspeakable are reached at the lowest depth.

It may be urged that the separation between the Brahman and, let us say, the Kurmi market gardener is no wider than that between the peer of the United Kingdom and the coal miner. There is this essential difference—that it is impossible for an Indian to change his caste. The coal miner may be elected to parliament, may become a cabinet minister and if he can make money enough may marry his son to a duke's daughter.

The Kurmi must remain a Kurmi. All the wealth of Croesus will not enable him to make an alliance with a Brahman family or to touch a Brahman's hand. The members of a caste may and in some cases do raise themselves in the sight of other castes by adopting more elaborate ceremonies and more scrupulous observances.

A half civilized Gond, for example, may find himself brought into contact with Hindus as the plow encroaches on the forest. He tries to raise his position and add to his self respect by adopting the exclusiveness of his Hindu neighbors. He will even outdo them if he can, and if the Hindu is scrupulous about his food the convert will wash the very wood with which his dinner is cooked.

No endeavors of this kind, however, will avail to lessen by a hair's breadth the distance between him and the caste Hindu or even to induce the Hindu barber to look upon him as a client whose chin he may shave and whose toe nails he may pare without degradation.

Another point connected with caste which has a very practical bearing and must be taken into account is the power of coercion which it gives to the brotherhood. If a man is excommunicated by his caste fellows nobody in the caste will marry him or will accept water from his hands or will eat with him.

If he is married his wife will not touch him or speak to him. He is dead to his family. The priest will not perform ceremonies for him. The village barber will not shave him, and the washerwoman will not wash his clothes. These are the methods of bringing pressure on the man. The strictest boycott which Irishmen have invented is mild compared to the final sentence of a caste punishment.

A system like this is a stern fact which has to be faced. There is not a police case or a civil case or a trial at the sessions, there is hardly an appointment to an office in India of whatever degree, in which the matter of caste has not to be considered. It forces itself into every assessment of land revenue, into every adjudication of rent. It affects the administration of justice, the proceedings of municipal and district councils.

The influence and power of the Brahman and the idea that he is above the law and is not to be punished as other people are still alive, although a century of British justice has done something toward eradicating them. On the other hand, the suggestion that a man of a lower caste might rise to an equality or nearer to an equality with members of a caste above him is unthinkable. Where the low caste men are, there they must remain. If they behave themselves it will be made up to them in a future existence.—London Spectator.

THIS DO IN REMEMBRANCE OF ME

Matthew 26:17-30—November 6 THESE studies are selected for us in advance. Otherwise our preference would have been to consider the incident connected with our Lord's closing of earth life in the Spring of the year about the season at which that occurred. But Truth is always precious to us and has always profitable lessons.

Jesus was a Jew and was, therefore, obligated to every feature of the Mosaic Law. He came not to destroy the Law, but to fulfill it. Today's study points us to the fulfillment of one feature of the Law—the Passover; not that it is already entirely fulfilled, but that the antitype has for more than eighteen centuries been in process of fulfillment and the complete fulfillment, sure to come, is, we believe, near at hand. To appreciate this study we must have clearly in mind the type—

Approximately 3,500 years ago God delivered the people of Israel from the despotic power of Pharaoh, King of Egypt. Time after time Pharaoh had refused to let the people go, preferring to hold them as chattels, slaves. Time after time God had sent plagues upon Egypt as chastisements. Under the influence of each plague Pharaoh repented and through Moses entreated God for mercy upon himself, and for the people relief from the plague. Nevertheless, every manifestation of Divine mercy tended only to harden his heart until finally the tenth plague, the severest of all, was necessary. That plague consisted in the execution of the death sentence against all the first-born of Egypt. But the Israelites in Egypt were exempt from its provisions under certain conditions. Each family was required to have its own lamb, not a bone of which was to be broken. Its blood was sprinkled upon the doorposts of the house and the family, assembled within, partook of its flesh with unleavened bread and bitter herbs, pilgrim-like, with staff in hand, ready for departure out of Egypt in the morning.

Israel's First-borns Passed Over When that night the Divine sentence slew all of Egypt's first-borns, the first-borns of Israel were passed over or spared; hence the name—Passover. And this ceremony, as a reminder of the great blessing of the Lord upon Israel, was commanded to be observed yearly as a memorial of God's goodness and because it typified, or illustrated, a still greater mercy and blessing yet to come. A little later on those spared first-borns were exchanged for one of the tribes—Levi. Thereafter the Levites were the passed-over first-borns and were specially devoted to God and his service.

The Antitypical Fulfillment Those experiences of the Israelites and their first-born ones were very real and properly very interesting to them; but they are still more interesting to Christians, who themselves are antitypes now being passed over. By Christians we do not mean all who merely make profession, nor all who attend Church, however regularly. We mean merely the saintly few who are now being called and being tested as to faithfulness to the Lord and by faith being passed over—from death unto life. These are Scripturally styled, "The Church of the first-borns, whose names are written in heaven" (Hebrews xii, 23). As the deliverance of the nation of Israel from Egypt took place after the sparing or passing over of the first-born, so, correspondingly, the Divine blessing will come upon the world of mankind directly after the completion of "the Church of the first-born"—directly after their passing from death unto life, by the power of the First Resurrection. If there is a first-born class it implies that there will be an after-born class. Thus the Scriptures everywhere distinctly teach that the present Fall, trial, testing, proving and final rewarding of the Church will not be the end of Divine mercy toward humanity, but, on the contrary, will be only its beginning; for since the saintly are spoken of as the "Church of the first-born," or as the Apostle declares, "the first-fruits unto God of his creatures," we are assured thereby that after-fruits are equally part of the Divine Program. Amongst the Levites were several divisions representing different ranks and grades of the Church of Christ. But the principle division or section of the Levites was the priestly family of Aaron, just as there is a special class amongst the antitypical Levites, the faithful few, known in the Scriptures as the Royal Priesthood.

The Antitypical Lamb and His Blood In Jesus' day the time had come for the fulfillment of the antitype of the Passover. Jesus himself was to be the Passover Lamb. By faith the merit of his sacrifice, his blood, was to be sprinkled upon the doorposts of his people's hearts, and his flesh, the merit of his earthly perfection, was to be eaten or appropriated by them in their minds. With it they were to eat the unleavened bread of the Divine promises and the bitter herbs of trials and adversities, and withal they were to drink wine, the blood of the grape, symbolically implying their participation with the Lamb in his ignominy and sufferings.

The Lamb of God, Jesus, the antitypical Passover Lamb, was slain nearly nineteen centuries ago on the exact anniversary of the killing of the typical lambs. The sacrifice of Jesus needs not to be repeated, for by faith we all sprinkle this same blood today, and in our hearts feed upon the merit of the same earthly sacrifice, and have plenty of bitter herbs of persecution and drink of the blood—share the Master's spirit and its reward of suffering for righteousness' sake.

Not many have appreciated these privileges during all these nineteen centuries—in all but a "little flock." Nor are there many who envy them their present experiences; nor are there many who appreciate how great will be their reward and blessing in the life to come. Then, instead of suffering with Christ, they shall reign with him in glory, honor and immortality.

"This Do In Remembrance of Me" Jesus, about to begin the fulfillment of this type by dying as the antitypical Passover Lamb (Christ our Passover is slain for us—I Corinthians v, 7), instituted for his followers an annual remembrance which, in their minds, would take the place of the type and continually remind them of the great Antitype. Instead of the literal flesh of the lamb, the Master used bread, and instead of the blood, the fruit of the vine, and instead of a further commemoration of the type, he directed that this be done in remembrance of the antitype—"the Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world," and the passover coming to the Church of the first-born, as precedent to the great blessings to result for Israel and all the families of the earth.

Our Lord as a Jew was obligated to keep the typical passover, eating of the literal lamb, etc., first; but subsequently, after that passover supper, he instituted with the bread and the fruit of the vine his substitutionary memorial of himself, saying, "Take, eat; this is my body. And he took the cup; and when he had given thanks, he gave it to them; and they all drank of it. And he said, 'Verily I say unto you, I will drink no more of the fruit of the vine, until that day when I drink it new in the Kingdom of God'—until his second coming in power and great glory to receive the Church as his elect Bride and Joint-Heir in his Kingdom and to shower blessings richly upon Israel and through Israel upon all mankind.

Judas, the Selfish Betrayer The hour for the betrayal was drawing near. The Master knew by some power unknown to us who would betray him, etc. Breaking the matter to the twelve, he said, "One of you will betray me." Each asked, "Is it I?" Even Judas brazenly challenged the Master's knowledge of his deceitful course and said, "Is it I?" The answer was, "It is as you have said—you are the betrayer. The Divine programme was carried out by the traitor, and the Scriptures were fulfilled which declare that he should be sold for thirty pieces of silver; but the coincidence marks the Divine foreknowledge without implying that God in any manner instigated the traitorous conduct, hence the statement, "Voe unto that man by whom the Son of Man is betrayed." From this standpoint we are to understand that there is no hope for Judas in a future life. His sorrow and anguish before his death were such as found no compensation in any happiness he had enjoyed in previous days.

In My Father's Kingdom In giving the disciples the bread, which represented his flesh, and the cup, which represented his blood, the Master pictorially offered them justification and sanctification, and, as St. Paul explained, he did more than this—he offered them a participation with himself in the sufferings of the present and in the glories of the future (I Corinthians x, 16, 17; Matthew xxvi, 26). The antitype of the cup in its higher sense will be the new joys of the Kingdom which all the faithful in Christ will share with the great King of glory, when he shall take unto himself his great power and reign.

SKIN AND SCALP TROUBLES YIELD TO ZEMO

A Clean Liquid Preparation for External Use

H. D. McCulloch Co. is so confident that ZEMO will rid the skin or scalp of infant or grown person of pimples, blackheads, dandruff, eczema, prickly heat, rashes, hives, ivy poison or any other form of skin or scalp eruption, that they will give your money back if you are not entirely satisfied with the results obtained from the use of ZEMO. The first application gives prompt relief and show an improvement and in every instance where used persistently, will destroy germ life, leaving the skin in a clean, healthy condition.

Let us show you proof of some remarkable cures made by ZEMO and give you a 32-page booklet how to preserve the skin. H. D. McCulloch Co.

For Long and Useful Life. If thou desire to take the best advantage of thyself, keep temperate diet, use moderate exercise, observe reasonable and set hours for rest.—F Quarles.

Dr. Bell's Antiseptic Salve

Is guaranteed for eczema, salt rheum, tetter, ringworm, running sores, chapped hands and lips, pimples on the face, black heads, barber's itch, sun burn, insect bites, fever sores and nasal catarrh. 25c.

Our Dreams. We are in such hurry that we no longer have time to sit down and dream dreams and no people make intellectual advance unless they do dream their dreams.—Woodrow Wilson.

Every Body Needs

a good salve and Dr. Bell's Antiseptic Salve is the best. It is a creamy snow white ointment. Guaranteed for all skin diseases. 25c. Sold everywhere.

Slow Progress in China. Even in Honan city, distant only two days by rail from Peking, lump silver, the same cumbersome currency that has been used for centuries, is still employed.

For Colic

or any bowel trouble Dr. Bell's Antipain acts like magic, relieves almost instantly. Also good for all external pains.

Jewels on an Idol. The jewels of an Indian idol must be worth stealing if many of those remarkably hideous images possess such valuable head ornaments as one made for the idol Parthasathy, in the Triplicane temple at Madras. The ornament is worth some 50,000 rupees and is made of gold, studded with diamonds, emeralds and rubies, the largest emerald being valued at 1,000 rupees and the biggest ruby and diamond at 300 rupees apiece.

Macedonia. Macedonia has a population of about 4,000,000. Three-fourths are Christians and one-fourth Turks. Nearly half are of Bulgarian ancestry.

Orchards. Orchards generally produce full crops only every other year. This is because the full crop of one year so exhausts the fruit producing qualities of the soil that it is not able to make a full crop the next year.

Presbyopia. Old sight (presbyopia) begins at about the age of forty. It is first noticed by the tendency to hold the paper farther off. The glasses should not enlarge the letters, but simply render them clear and natural at the ordinary reading distance. Whatever the ocular defect, the proper glasses should be obtained as soon as it is discovered.

Perfumes. There are scores of references in the Bible to the use of perfumes by the Hebrews both in their religious services and in private life.

Cyclists' Paradise. Denmark is described in the report of the American consul at Copenhagen as a wheelman's paradise, with an abundance of good roads, good inns and special tracks in cities and few gradients. In Copenhagen, he says, there are 60,000 cyclists—probably a larger proportion to the population than will be found in any other city.

E. Burnham's HAIR TONIC 50c & $1.00

Dandruff Remedy 50c Cleanses the scalp—prevents the hair from falling, promotes its growth and renders it soft and glossy. A Sample of the Hair Tonic will convince you of its merits. Insist that your dealer furnish you with a sample of E. Burnham's Tonic Remedy.

Unique Books in Museum. The British museum contains books written on oyster shells, bricks, tiles, bones, ivory, lead, iron, sheepskin, and palm leaves.

Croup is the most prevalent during the dry cold weather of the early winter months. Parents of young children should be prepared for it. All that is needed is a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Many mothers are never without it in their homes, and it has never disappointed them. Sold by H. D. McCulloch Co.

Will Promote Beauty.

Women desiring beauty get wonderful help from Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It banishes pimples, skin eruptions, sores and boils. It makes the skin soft and velvety. It glorifies the face. Cures sore eyes, cold sores, cracked lips, chapped hands. Best for burns, scalds, fever sores, cuts, bruises and piles. 25c at H. D. McCulloch Co.

Went Too Far.

Yeast—"Do you think there is a penalty for lying?" Crimsonbeak—"Sure! I knew a fellow who dislocated his shoulder while stretching out his hands to show the size of the fish he claimed he had caught!"

Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey

Will break up the worst cold and all throat irritation. This remedy quickly cures coughs, colds, grippe and all throat and bronchial troubles.

Berlin Not So Slow. In Berlin, where much wood is burned, they are not so slow. A motor truck drives up to a house and delivers a load of logs. A motor sawing machine rolls up under its own power, cuts, with saws run by gasoline, the wood into fireplace lengths as desired, cleans up the litter and moves on. Very little noise.

Beautiful Eyes

are desired by every one. If there is any inflammation the eyes can't be beautiful. Sutherland's Eagle Eye Salve will remove the inflammation and clear the eyes.

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.
Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.
Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for much sickness and suffering, therefore, if kidney trouble is permitted to continue, serious results are most likely to follow. Your other organs may need attention, but your kidneys must, because they do most and should have attention first. Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.
If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. A trial will convince you of its great merit.
The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest because its remarkable health restoring properties have been proven in thousands of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best.
Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root—if you do you will be disappointed.

Shall Women Vote?
If they did, millions would vote Dr. King's New Life Pills the true remedy for women. For banishing dull, fagged feelings, backache, constipation, dispelling colds, imparting appetite and toning up the system, they're unequalled. Easy, safe, sure. 25c at H. D. McCulloch Co.

If you knew what a woman was doing all the time, you wouldn't worry so much—or else you would worry more. Settle that with your conscience.

Cheap Imitations
Owing to the immense sale and popularity of Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey there are many cheap imitations on the market under similar sounding names, but you can always get the genuine by looking for the bell on the bottle.

Saves an Iowa Man's Life.
The very grave seemed to yawn before Robert Madsen, of West Burlington, Iowa, when, after seven weeks in the hospital, four of the best physicians gave him up. Then was shown the marvelous curative power of Electric Bitters. For, after eight months of frightful suffering from liver trouble and yellow jaundice, getting no help from other remedies or doctors, five bottles of this matchless medicine completely cured him. Its positively guaranteed for stomach, liver or kidney troubles and never disappoints. Only 50c at H. D. McCulloch Co.

Connecticut man shot himself in the head ten times and still lives. That's what Connecticut men get for substituting wooden nutmegs for genuine vines.

When a cold becomes settled in the system, it will take several days' treatment to cure it, and the best remedy to use is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will cure quicker than any other, and also leaves the system in a natural and healthy condition. Sold by H. D. McCulloch Co.

An American promoter is about to build an amusement park in Rome. The ancient ruins will have to put in vaudeville attractions to hold the crowds.

Whooping Cough
It is an old saying that whooping cough must run its course, but the use of Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey has demonstrated beyond doubt that such is not the case. It can be cured by the use of this remedy.

CALIFORNIA
Far Ahead of Louisiana From a Financial Standpoint.

COMPARISON OF TWO STATES

Bank Statistics Show That the Pacific Coast Commonwealth Outclasses Her Southern Rival—Some Items That Ought to Tell Heavily as Arguments for the City of San Francisco.

"With no design to lay bare a rival's hard circumstances, but to ascertain definitely the relative and comparative ability of California and Louisiana, and of San Francisco and New Orleans, to finance and handle a world's fair, the California Exposition committee has been looking into the banking figures of the two states and two cities," says the San Francisco Call. "The showing is tremendously against Louisiana and New Orleans. Herewith are some items that ought to tell heavily as financial arguments for San Francisco. They are taken from the report of the national monetary commission and relate almost wholly to conditions on April 28, 1909. That they are exact and authentic there can be no question."

"The results of the comparison are striking. For example, with comparatively equal populations, California has four dollars of banking resources to Louisiana's one. The savings deposits of the states are 13 to 1 in California's favor, ranking California fourth in the Union in this respect and Louisiana twenty-fourth."

"San Francisco's 200,000 savings depositors have $154,000,000 tucked away; New Orleans shows 55,000 such depositors with only $17,000,000 laid up against that rainy day. San Francisco's savings banks paid their passbook holders in interest in the year covered by the report upward of $5,000,000; New Orleans savings depositors in the same period were credited with a little more than a quarter of a million."

"According to the report of the comptroller of the currency, the national banks of San Francisco increased their total resources $103,000,000 in the year 1909-1910; New Orleans national banks increased a little more than $2,000,000."

"Below are the precise figures: Comparative Banking Statistics Relative to California and Louisiana."

Note.—The figures above given are taken from the report of the national monetary commission, and except as noted relate to April 28, 1909. The last comparison is taken from the reports of the comptroller of the currency."

Hint to Louisiana.
Louisiana will have to be up and doing if it is to capture the Panama International Exposition of 1915. A special session of the California legislature has proposed two amendments to the state constitution which will allow an additional $10,000,000 for the financing of the exposition, and over $7,000,000 has already been provided by private subscription.—Cincinnati Southwest.

Declares For San Francisco.
Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans, retired, has declared himself in favor of San Francisco as the place for holding the international exposition to celebrate the opening of the Panama canal in 1915. He bases his preference on San Francisco's present prominence and future as a great seaport.—Owaga (N. Y.) Times.

A VERY NICE PROFESSOR
By M. QUAD
Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.

When Professor Watson took the stage at Ellsworth to ride over to Diamondville the innkeeper liked his looks and talk. He hadn't been in the village a day when we all liked his looks and talk. He was a little, roly poly man of fifty and gave out that he was a professor of metaphysics in a New England college. His age was about fifty, and he carried a smile on his face that would have pulled a crocus out of the ground a month ahead of time.

In Diamondville lived the Widow Steadman. She was forty years old and well off. She was being courted by the town constable, who was an old bachelor. It was said they were engaged, but the arrival of the very nice professor wrought a change. In a week he had made her acquaintance and was calling on her. In a fortnight the nose of the town constable was out of joint. The professor appeared to be in the best of health, but he claimed that metaphysics had broken him down and that he had come to the village for rest.

The constable was called stupid as an officer—good hearted, but stupid. We hadn't sized him up correctly as to the stupid part. As soon as he discovered that he was being thrown down he began to study the professor. He wrote to half a dozen colleges and was told that they had never heard of the man. By accident he got hold of a paper that put him on the right trail. He went up to the city and had a talk with the police.

One June day the stage from the railroad rolled in, and its cargo consisted of eleven women. They might have been said to be of all ages, sexes and colors. As the vehicle halted at the Inn Professor Watson sat on the veranda. He was put under arrest by a detective and the constable as he sat, but he got on his feet and raised his hat eleven different times to the eleven females. Some cried out at sight of him, some smiled, and some shed tears. After replacing his hat the professor shook hands with the eleven, beginning at the head of the line and saying:

"My dear, your name is Hannah, if I remember, and, though your call is unexpected, you are nevertheless welcome."

Then he took up the case of Jane, Betsy, Mary, and so on. Every woman there was his wife, and a wife he had abandoned, and yet he carried that smile and his nerve right through it. He was taken to jail, and the jailer said he was one of the nicest men he ever met. The officers had a case against him bigger'n a house. He had practiced bigamy for twenty years. He had married girls, spinsters, widows and old women. One of the victims was sixty-five years old. He had got money from some of them, but it didn't seem as if that was his motive. As he explained it:

"Why, I just fell in love, and she fell in love, and we were married. Really, I didn't know I had married so many."

And when the women were asked to explain they answered:

"Why, he's such a very, very nice man that we couldn't help it. He's just too sweet for anything."

And, would you believe it, the Widow Steadman, who would have made the twelfth, was the first one to send him a bouquet and her sympathies after he had been locked up!

The professor hadn't gone far afield. He had done all his marrying within a radius of 200 miles. He had made a nice, kind husband while it lasted. He had painted kitchen floors, washed dishes and whitewashed cellars. Yes, the officers thought they had him dead to rights, but they soon learned to the contrary. Only one woman out of the eleven was willing to swear against the man. The county had the whole gang on its hands to lodge and board.

The wife who was willing to do it was an old maid and so bony and homely as to excite general remark. For a time she was fierce to send the little man to a place where the dogs couldn't bite him. None of the ten others would speak to her. She was sent for by the professor. When she had arrived at the jail, determined that his cajolery should not move her, he held out his arms to her and said:

"Birdie, you can't find it in your heart to do it. You are too noble and generous. If I hadn't seen the nobility of your character in your face I should never have trusted my happiness in your keeping."

She believed him and fell on his shoulder and wept. When the trial was at last called not one of the eleven was complainant. When put on the stand as witnesses they were no good. They perjured themselves, and they wriggled and twisted and made all sorts of excuses for the man, and the jury had to strain a point to convict him. He got a sentence of three years, and before being taken to prison he had interviews with the eleven in succession, and to each one he said:

"Never mind, darling. Three years will soon pass away, and then we will be with each other again, to part never more."

A Chicago woman asks a divorce because her husband wore her garments. This is a case where clothes made the man trouble.

Not Sorry for Blunder.
"If my friends hadn't blundered in thinking I was a doomed victim of consumption, I might not be alive now," writes D. T. Sanders, of Harrodsburg, Ky., "but for years they saw every attempt to cure a lung-racking cough fail. At last I tried Dr. King's New Discovery. The effect was wonderful. It soon stopped the cough and I am now in better health than I have had for years." This wonderful life-saver is an unrivaled remedy for coughs, colds, grippe, asthma, croup, hemorrhages, whooping cough or weak lungs. 50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by H. D. Mr. Madison and family of Stevens Point have moved on the Al. Morrill place, where Mr. Madison will engage in farming with Al.

Potatoes were delivered to this market with a rush last week. As a good many were being held in the fields, the continued cold spell reminded us that it was about time to get them to warmer quarters.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Wilcox and children and Mrs. Jennie Perkins of Metesse, Wyo., visited at the home of L. T. Fox, Saturday and Sunday. The above named ladies are sisters of Mrs. Fox and were residents of this place a number of years ago.

Arthur Clendenning was quite seriously hurt one day last week while shredding corn near Plover. He was elevating the blower when the rope broke, which caused him to lose his balance and fall from the top of the machine. The blower, which also fell, struck him very forcibly across the back. He has been unable to walk since but is slowly improving.

CUSTER.

Miss Jennie Leary has returned from a visit of several weeks at the home of her uncle and with other relatives at Neshkoro.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schemmer of Rock Valley, Iowa, arrived here last Saturday and visited until yesterday with their nephew, Rev. Geo. A. Schemmer, at St. Mary's parsonage near Custer.

The Total Abstinence Society of St. Mary's church, Custer, will give an oyster supper at Foresters hall, next week Friday evening, Nov. 15th. Local musical talent will also entertain during the progress of the supper.

ROSHOLT.

Twenty-eight cents per bushel is the local market price for potatoes.

O. F. Meyer sold 40 acres of land 4 1/2 miles east of town to Julius Johnson.

F. C. Ducholz went to Madison Friday to take a three months' course in dairying.

Wm. Brunner, Republican candidate for sheriff, was in town Friday and Saturday.

Hotel Rosholt has been sold to Lawrence Peterson, who will have charge of it soon.

Van Duval, conductor on the C. & N. W. R. R., went to Antigo Friday to spend a few days with friends.

A dance was held in the village hall Friday evening, Nov. 5th. Music was furnished by the Big Four orchestra from Stevens Point, composed of Aug. Johnson, F. J. O'Keefe, D. M. O'Keefe, Wm. Koch and Walter Jablowski. All the dancers appeared to have a fine time.

AMHERST.

Remember the fireman ball, Nov. 22d.

R. Guenther and Miss Teckla Guenther of Knowlton.

Pays Heavy Damages.

While employed at the Phoenix Wall Paper Mills last spring, Fred Hass, who resides at 1234 Church street, in the Sixth ward, met with a serious accident. He was engaged in conveying two large rolls of paper from one floor to another, when the elevator dropped and one of the rolls fell on his left leg, crushing the bones at the ankle. By skillful care on the part of Drs. Rogers and von Neupert, amputation was avoided, but Mr. Hass has since been unable to work and is still badly crippled.

His case was placed in the hands of E. B. Park, who on Tuesday received a check from the Fidelity & Casualty Co. in the sum of $3,271 in full settlement, the Phoenix company having all their employees thus protected in the event of an accident.

OBITUARY.

FLORIAN HAUZINGER.

Florian Hautzinger, who had been a sufferer from tuberculosis for about one year, passed away at the family home on Jefferson street at 8:30 last Friday evening, in the 19th year of his age.

The deceased was born in this city, Mar. 14, 1892, and had always resided here. After finishing his studies at St. Joseph's school about three years ago, he secured employment at the Coye Furniture Co. plant, but was forced to resign about one year ago on account of ill health. Since then he had gradually failed, although every modern method to check the dreaded disease was resorted to, including the open air treatment, he having slept in a tent for several months, and was confined to his bed for only three days before the final summons. He was an intelligent boy and a very devout member of St. Joseph's church. His mother died a little more than one year ago and he is survived by his father, Stephen Hautzinger, one brother, Frank, and four sisters, Tillie and Lena of this city, Sister Hilary of Manitowoc and Sister Herman Joseph of Middleton.

The funeral took place from St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock Monday morning, Rev. H. J. Ehr officiating, with interment in the parish cemetery.

The pallbearers were Frank Kaltenecker, Will Adams, John Huber, John Koehl, Andrew Rieschl and Frank Waldherr. Relatives and friends from outside were Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Neuberger and son, Nicholas, of Fond du Lac, John Hautzinger and children, Joseph and Theresa and Joseph Rieschl of Menasha.

MRS. MARY BOURSIER.

At the old home in the town of Stockton Mrs. Mary Boursier, widow of the late John Boursier, passed away at 10 o'clock last Thursday evening, the result of old age, after an illness of several months, having gradually failed since last spring.

The deceased lady, whose maiden name was Mary Young, was a native of Maine, born at Corina, July 26, 1827, and was therefore in the 84th year of her age. On her 20th birthday she was married to John Boursier, the ceremony taking place at Mill Creek, Wood county. Three years later they located on land in the southern part of the town of Stockton and this had been the family home for sixty years. The original farm, however, has been increased four-fold and is considered one of the most valuable in Portage county, and upon which have been erected one of the best farm houses and other buildings within the borders of the county. Mr. and Mrs. Boursier were not only among the first to locate upon land in the above township, but were pioneer farmers of the county. The husband died thirteen years ago and they are survived by one son, John Boursier of this city and two daughters, Mrs. T. H. Hackett of San Diego, Cal., and Mrs. Orleziem Derosier, who with her husband has been living on the old homestead. Another daughter, who was also a resident of the town of Stockton, died a few years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Hackett spent part of the summer here, leaving for their home in the west a few weeks ago.

The funeral was held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon from the family home, Rev. T. W. North of St. Paul's M. E. church of this city officiating, followed by interment in Plover cemetery.

Those who attended from outside were Mr. and Mrs. Claire Boursier, of Gary, Ind., he being a grandson of the deceased. The pallbearers were John Dineen, Ralph Doane, Timothy and Chas. Leary and John and Peter Jacobs.

MRS. O. B. FOSTER.

Mrs. O. B. Foster, who had been in a precarious condition for some time, due to a nervous breakdown and heart trouble, passed away at her home, 121 Oak street, at 3 o'clock last Thursday afternoon.

The deceased lady was born at Trenton, N. J., Jan. 18, 1845, and was therefore nearly 66 years of age. Her parents came west about 59 years ago, locating on a farm east of McDill, where both passed away in later years. Her maiden name was Mary Jane Cartmill and she was married to O. B.

Foster in 1872. She was a sister of the late Chas. Cartmill of this city and Wm. Cartmill of McDill.

She is survived by her husband, one son, Fred, of Chippewa Falls, and a daughter, Mrs. Elsie L. Hewitt, of Grand Rapids, besides eight grandchildren. She also leaves one sister, Mrs. Thos. Albright, of Seattle, Wash.

The funeral was held from the residence at 2:30 Sunday afternoon, Rev. J. A. Stemen officiating, followed by interment in Forest cemetery.

Hymns were sung by Mrs. Herman Vetter and Miss Gussie Smith and the pallbearers were Frank Patterson, M. E. Bruce, Guy Morrill, C. E. Emmons, Geo. Julier and C. W. Simonson.

MARY KLINKERT.

After a long illness with tuberculosis of the throat, Miss Mary Klinkert passed away at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Klinkert, 132 Algoma street, at 2:30 last Thursday afternoon.

The deceased was a native of Miltisch, Germany, born Feb. 8, 1880, but had resided in this city nearly all her life, her parents coming to Stevens Point when she was only six months old. She was educated at St. Joseph's parochial school, finishing her studies when she was about 13 years of age. Her mother died in the fall of 1891 from the same disease. For several years she was employed in the Frost fly factory, but about one year ago on account of ill health was forced to stop work and remain at home, being confined to her bed for ten weeks before the final summons came to relieve her from further suffering. She was a good, kind young lady and had many friends who are grieved at her departure.

Besides her father and stepmother, she leaves one sister, Anna, five step-sisters, Elizabeth, Margaret, Katherine, Agnes and Helen, and one step-brother, Louis. The funeral was held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock from St. Joseph's church, Rev. Henry J. Ehr officiating, with interment in the parish cemetery. The pallbearers were Peter Adams, Nicholas Gross, John Koehl, Frank Kaltenecker, Andrew Rieschl and Michael Schneider.

JOHN FRASZ.

At 9 o'clock last Friday night John Frasz passed away at his home, 307 Prentice street, death resulting from tuberculosis, after having been in poor health for several years. Some six or eight years ago he was almost an invalid for a long time, but regained his health to a remarkable extent and was able to work until about one year ago, since which time he had gradually declined and was confined to his bed for about four months before the end.

The deceased was born at Haverstraw, N. Y., Oct. 18, 1872, and was therefore 38 years of age. His parents came here when he was an infant, and this city had always been his home. After leaving school he learned the tailors' trade and worked for Jos. Gliniski, Aug. Goerke and others for years. He is survived by his wife and four children, Regina, Laura, Grace and Edwin, besides his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Frasz, one brother, Peter, and five sisters, Mrs. Mary Goszowski, Pearl, Stella and Lilly Frasz, of this city, and Mrs. Mike Andrew, of Wausau.

The funeral was held from St. Peter's church at 9 o'clock Monday morning, Rev. S. A. Elbert officiating, with interment in the parish cemetery.

MRS. CHRIS. SCHARMEN.

Mrs. Chris. Scharmen of Chicago, formerly Miss Frances Mosey of this city, died at her home on Sunday after an illness of about two years with tuberculosis. The deceased was a native of Stevens Point, born Nov. 28, 1880, and was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Mosey, who reside on the North Side. She left for Chicago about twelve years ago, where she was married. When her health began to fail, she went to Albuquerque, New Mexico, without material benefit, and spent part of the past summer with her parents at 906 N. Second street. For the past couple of months she had been in a sanatorium in Chicago, in which city the funeral took place yesterday.

She is survived by her husband and one son, besides her parents, two sisters and three brothers. The sisters are Miss Helen of this city, Mrs. A. E. Russell of Lockridge, Ia. The brothers are John S. of this city, Ignatius

To Liquor Dealers.

Retail Liquor Dealers, Take Notice:—On and after Nov. 10 the "midnight" closing ordinance must be observed. This means at 12 o'clock sharp, and any infraction means revocation of license, as does any further breaking of Sunday morning rules. Curtains must be arranged to give an unobstructed view of the bar from the street, during the closing hours. The chief of police has been instructed to enforce these regulations. Respectfully yours, F. A. Walters, Mayor

Nov. 6, 1910.

The deer season opens at 12 o'clock tomorrow night, but those who wish to hunt must go further north to do so, as it is unlawful to kill deer in any of the counties south, east or west of Portage county.

ALGERIAN

AFTER BIG GAME

THE first thing which strikes the observant critic in looking at an Algerian falconer, either in bodily shape or as depicted in the accompanying illustration, is his choice of the left hand as a perch for his trained hawk. In this respect he resembles, of course, European professors of the art, and also the Japanese, whereas the Mahometans, as well as others, in British India, always carry their falcons on the right fist. It will be noticed also that the glove differs considerably from that which is worn in England. Not only is the gauntlet much longer, reaching more than half way to the elbow, but it fits much more tightly to the bare arm, so that no coat sleeve, and hardly even a shirt, could be worn underneath it. This form of glove is undoubtedly preferred by reason of the habitual practise of North African falconers of carrying two and more hawks at the same time to the field without using a cage as we do. When the left fist, and possibly the left wrist also, is occupied by a hawk or hawks, the place next chosen for a perch is the head, or the turban surmounting it; and a third, or even a fourth, hawk may then well be accommodated on the right shoulder. All these last-mentioned hawks would, of course, be hooded; but occasionally the one occupying the place of honor on the fist will be unhooded, ready for a flight, even while the head and shoulders are still tenanted by other hawks waiting their turn for the fray. The African falconer seems to hold his fist higher when carrying his hawk than the European. And the difference may perhaps be accounted for by the fact that in the head-dress of the former there is no hard surface which, like the hat of the European, might cause the breakage of a feather-tip when the hawk happened to bate suddenly. For practical purposes, at least when the hawk is unhooded and on the lookout for the quarry, no doubt the higher she is held the better. And, indeed, even in Europe, merlins are sometimes carried on a fist held as high as the shoulder, so as to give them a better start in the arduous ringing flights which they are often called upon to attempt.

The quarry which is most often pursued in Algeria is the hare. And the hawk employed in the pursuit is invariably the saker. This fine falcon resembles nearly in size and measurements the smaller of the ger-falcons, although in its coloring and in the size of the feet there is a great difference. For each of these—the ger and the saker—the proper quarry, if regard is had to mere sport and not to the "pot" or the "bag," is the kite. And for this flight the Arabs, as well as the Persians and Indians and other orientals, prepare the saker, not only by a long course of special training, but by a process of "physicking," which has been found in the course of centuries not only effectual, but also in many cases indispensable. The drugs administered by the trainer shortly before the falcon is to be flown induce in her an artificial hunger of a raven-

MRS. CRIPPEN ALIVE?

FORMER EMPLOYER OF CON-
DEMNED MAN ASSERTS WOM-

HE OFFERS $50,000 REWARD

Philadelphia Doctor Declares One of His Salesmen Saw Belle Elmore in Kansas City in September—Dentist to Hang Tuesday.

New York—Dr. J. M. Munyon of Philadelphia announced Saturday at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel that he believes Belle Elmore Crippen is alive and has offered a reward of $50,000 to anyone who would produce her.

He says he will give the $50,000 to Mrs. Crippen herself if she will come forward and save the life of her husband, who is to be hanged for her murder in London next Tuesday.

"I have believed all along that Mrs. Crippen would appear in time to save her husband," said Doctor Munyon, "but now it looks as though she is keeping in hiding to carry out the most consummate plan of revenge in the annals of women's crimes of jealousy or else is carrying an advertising game too far."

"Six weeks ago one of my salesmen, who knew Mrs. Crippen well, while her husband was employed by me, wrote me from Kansas City that he saw a woman get on a train there whom he believed to be Mrs. Crippen. I did nothing at that time, but a few days ago when I received a letter from a Philadelphia lawyer named Tobin saying he had good reason to believe Mrs. Crippen is alive, I determined to act. I have had two letters from Tobin so far and expect to have a personal interview with him in a day or two."

"I never could be persuaded that Crippen killed his wife. He was too gentle a man to do such a thing."

London—Dr. Hawley H. Crippen, convicted of the murder of his wife, will be hanged on November 8. The criminal court of appeals Saturday decided against him on all points of his appeal and confirmed the order of execution, which will be carried out Tuesday. The court ruled the temporary separation of the jury did not affect the trial.

Changed as he was physically, Crippen maintained his composure even in the trying moment when he heard his doom pronounced. When the court's decision was announced, a warder touched the prisoner on the shoulder, and the latter, without a word or gesture, turned and left the dock. He was conducted at once to Pentonville prison.

Those who have seen Crippen during his imprisonment say his bearing never has changed from the moment of his arrest. He sleeps throughout the night soundly and eats heartily. He spends much time in reading. Miss Leneve has visited him in the prison three times.

DECLARES POLE NOT FOUND

Rasmussen, Danish Explorer, Quoted as Saying Neither Peary Nor Cook Made Discovery.

Copenhagen—Neither Cook nor Peary has a shadow of truth in his claims. No living explorer or Eskimo has been within hundreds of miles of the north pole.

This is the startling conclusion reached by Knud Rasmussen, say missionaries to Greenland, who returned here Saturday. The missionaries, who are deemed religious and reliable, say too that they bring details of Rasmussen's cross-examination of the two Eskimos, Absweiah and Eturishuk, upon whose testimony Doctor Cook relied for corroboration of his claim that he reached the north pole.

After closely questioning these two and other Eskimos, Rasmussen is absolutely certain that the pole is still unconquered. Rasmussen, an experienced arctic explorer, is the Danish Inspector of Greenland. His mother was an Eskimo, his father a Dane. Whatever Rasmussen says about arctic exploration is accepted with the greatest faith here. He was a partisan of Doctor Cook at one time. So, if the missionaries quote him correctly, his report will reopen the entire polar controversy.

Peace Plans Are Refused.

Chicago.—By practically unanimous action 40,000 striking garment workers Saturday repudiated an arbitration agreement signed by President Thomas A. Rickert of their own national organization and officers of Hart, Schaffner & Marx. The rejection of the agreement puts the strike back where it was before the peace negotiations were started. President Rickert and several other officials of the union were forced to flee from the halls for fear of physical violence after they communicated the nature of the agreement to the strikers.

STATE
HAPPENINGS

Marquette.—Three bloodhounds straining through the snow at the leashes held by a party of the expert cruisers of the I. Stephenson company burst through the spruce edging of the Menominee river, near Newhall, Mich., only to find the object of their search, little four-year-old Rene Chaille, frozen in the thin ice on the edge of the river.

The little lad strayed away from home in Newhall. But before their arrival at Newhall, a deep snow fell, and the dogs had great difficulty in following the scent. The best trained of the three dogs led the way to an abandoned camp where the child had often gone to play, but there the scent was lost. Finally through the snow the animal found the scent leading to the river, and took the party to where the body lay.

Marquette.—Fifteen Marquette fishermen have nets set for trout, although this is not the open season. The fishing is carried on, however, through permission of the state, for the purpose of catching lake trout for their spawn. This is to be deposited in the spawning beds near here. According to the agreement with the state, the fishermen must take along an expert especially for the handling of the spawn.

Kenosha.—Twenty children ranging in ages between three and twelve years, were brought into municipal court here to answer charges of petty larceny in connection with thefts from fields about the city. The parents of the children appeared with them in court and they were notified that if the children were again arrested the parents would be brought into court and fined.

La Crosse.—With the opening of the deer hunting season on November 14, little more than a week away, applications for hunting licenses in Wisconsin indicate there will be thousands of deer hunters in the northern Wisconsin woods next week. Reports from Indians and woodsmen in the northern counties say that the deer are plentiful this fall.

Marquette.—While traveling at a lively clip east of Kelso, Mich., the drive rod broke on the locomotive of the copper country passenger train on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway and partly wrecked the engine. Fireman E. King jumped and was slightly injured, but Engineer William Karn, who stuck to his post and brought his locomotive to a stop, was not hurt.

Fond du Lac.—A wolf hunt will be held in the town of Eden. Wolves are reported to have been seen in various parts of the county during the last few days and in one place 30 sheep were killed by the animals. This is the first time in the last fifteen years that any wolves have been seen in this county.

Eau Claire.—Edmund Carden, aged sixty-one, a resident of Eau Claire for many years, was struck by a Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul engine while attempting to cross a grade crossing on Main street. He now lies at the point of death.

La Crosse.—Two footpads choked C. A. Olberg, a wealthy real estate owner, known as the "King of Hungry Point," into insensibility, but found only seven cents and a few documents in his pockets, which they could not use. He will recover.

Oshkosh.—Believing some boys were carrying away his property, Julius Strohline, one of the proprietors of the Waukon hotel, fired a gun, it is alleged. Eugene Fitzpatrick is dying of wounds, having received the full charge. Strohline is in jail.

Appleton.—Rev. Theodore Marth, who was given the unanimous call to become pastor of St. Stephen's Lutheran church in Wausau, will remain pastor of Zion's Lutheran church of this city, where he has been for the last twenty years.

Beloit.—Business transacted by the Beloit post office during the last fifteen years more than quadrupled. Rising from an annual business of $13,000 in 1895, the business has grown until the present year it is $55,000.

Hayward.—Otto Mack, a sawyer employed by the Edward Hines Lumber company at camp No. 5, 12 miles from Hayward, was instantly killed by a falling tree.

Beloit.—Albert Lighthart fell a victim of two men who sand-bagged him, took his watch and $25 in money and then threw him into a gutter in South Beloit.

Wausau.—J. H. Niehoff, a traveling salesman, Quincy, Ill., was thrown from a buggy in a runaway and fatally injured. He died.

Madison.—Edward Bass and Roy Braman, Fort Atkinson, in federal court pleaded guilty to a charge of destroying rural mail boxes in the vicinity of Fort Atkinson. Judge Sanborn suspended sentence on their promise to report once each month to the county judge of Jefferson county.

SYNOPSIS.

At a private view of the Chatworth personal estate, to be sold at auction, the Chatworth ring, known as the Crow Idol, mysteriously disappears. Harry Cressy, who was present, describes the ring to his fiancée, Flora Gilsey, and her chaplain, Mrs. Clara Britton, being like a beautiful god, with a beautiful sapphire set in the head. Flora meets Mr. Kerr, an Englishman, at the club. In discussing the disappearance of the ring, the exploits of an English thief, Farelle Wand, are recalled. Flora has a fancy that Harry and Kerr know something about the mystery. Kerr tells Flora that he has met Harry somewhere, but cannot place him. A $3,000 reward is offered for the return of the ring. Harry admits to Flora that he dislikes Kerr. Harry takes Flora to a Chinese goldsmith's to buy an engagement ring. An exquisite sapphire set in a hoop of brass, is selected. Harry urges her not to wear it until it is reset. The possession of the ring seems to cast a spell over Flora. She becomes uneasy and apprehensive. Flora meets Kerr at a box party. She is startled by the effect on him when he gets a glimpse of the sapphire. The possibility that the stone is part of the Crow Idol causes Flora much anxiety. Unseen, Flora discovers Clara ransacking her dressing room. Flora refuses to give or sell the stone to Kerr, and suspects him of being the thief. Flora's interest in Kerr increases. She decides to return the ring to Harry, but he tells her to keep it for a day or two. Ella Butler tells Flora that Clara is setting her cap for her father, Judge Butler. Flora believes Harry suspects Kerr and is waiting to make sure of the reward before unmasking the thief. Clara seems to be intent about something. Kerr and Clara confess their love for each other.

The child furtively tested her coin, biting it as if to taste the glitter, and Flora waited, lost, given up by herself, passively watching for the room to be filled again with his presence. He was back after a long minute, and this time took up his stand at the door, where, pushing aside the tight-drawn curtain a little, from time to time he looked out into the street. Sometimes his eyes followed the cracks of the plastered wall, sometimes he studied the floor at his feet; every moment she saw he was alert, expectantly watching and waiting; and though he never looked at her sitting behind him, she felt his protection between her and the darkening street. She sat in the shadow of it, feeling it all around her, claiming her as it would claim her henceforth, from the world. A ghost of light glimmered along the curtains of the window, and stopped, quivering, in the middle of the curtained door. Then he turned and beckoned her. Sheer weakness kept her sitting. He went to her, took her face between his hands, and looked into it long and intently.

"You don't want to go!" The words fell from his lips like an accusation. His sudden realization of what she felt held him there dumb with disappointment. "You have won me," her look was saying, "and yet I have immediately become a worthless thing, because I am going; and I don't believe in going." She felt she had failed him—how cruelly, was written in his face. But it was only for a moment that she made him hesitate. The next he shook himself free.

"Well, come," he said. She felt that all doors would fly open at his bidding. She felt herself swept powerless at his will with all the yielding in her soul that she had felt in her body when his arms were around her. He had taken her by the hand—he was leading her out into the gusty night, where all lights flared—the gas-lights marching up the street over the hill into the unknown, and the lights gleaming at her like eyes in the dark bulk of the carriage waiting before the door. It all glimmered before her—a picture she might never see again—might not see after she passed through the carriage door that gaped for her. The will that had swept her out of the door was moving far beyond her own will, as it had moved her that morning in the garden, beyond all things that she knew. There was no feeling left in her but the despair of extreme surrender.

She found herself in the carriage. She saw his face in the carriage door as pale as anger, yet not angry; it was some bigger thing that looked at her from his eyes. He looked a long while, as if he bade her never to forget this moment. Then, "I'll give you 24 hours," he said. "This man will take you home." He shut the carriage door—shut it between them. Before she had gathered breath he had straightened, fallen back, raised his hat, and the carriage was turning. Flora thrust her head, straw hat and ribbons, out of the window.

"Oh, I love you!" she called to him. She sank back in the cushions and covered her face with her hands.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Goblin Tactics.

For a little she kept her face hidden, shutting out the present, jealously living with the wonderful thing that had happened to her. It was as wonderful as anything she had dreamed might come when she had written him that letter. And if she needed any proof of his love, she had had it in the moment when he had let her go. There he had transcended her hope.

He had been wonderful in a way she had not expected. He had shown her so beautifully that he could be reached in spite of his obsession. But not she here to touch him just a little further? Was there any height now that he might not rise to? She seemed to see the possible end of it all shaping itself out of his magnanimity. She seemed to see him finally relinquishing his passion for the jewel, and his passion for her for the sake of something finer than both. She looked out of the window. The flickers of gas-lamps fell intermittently through it upon her. Her queer vehicle was rattling crazily—jolting as if every spring were at its last leap. She was out of the quiet, blue street, Montgomery avenue, with its lights, its glittering gilt names and Latin insignia, was traveling by on either side of her. The voice of the city was growing louder in her ears, the crowd on the pavement increased. She sat looking out at the maze of moving lights and figures without seeing them, intent on an idea that was growing clearer, larger, moment by moment in her mind.

Kerr's appearance in her garden—his capture of her—had not been the fantastic freak it had seemed. He had had his purpose. He had taken her out of her environment; he had carried her beyond succor or menace just that he might carry them both so much further and faster through their differences. They had not reached the point of agreement yet, but might they not on some other ground, where they could be unchallenged? It seemed to her if she could only meet him on her own ground for once—instead of for ever on Clara's or Harry's—only meet him alone, where beyond their reach, it might be accomplished, it might be brought to the end she so wished.

The hack, which had been moving along at a rapid pace, slowed now to a walk among the thickening traffic, and from a mere moving mass the crowd appeared as individuals—a stream of dark figures and white faces. Her eyes slipped from one to another. Here one stood still on the lamp-lit corner, looking down, with lips moving quickly and silently. It was strange to see those rapid, eager, moving lips with no sound from them audible. Then her eyes were startled by something familiar in the figure, though the direct down-glare of the ball of light above him distorted the features with shadows. She pressed her face against the window-glass in palpitating doubt. It was Harry.

She covered in the corner of the carriage. In a moment the risks of her situation were before her. Had he seen her? Oh, no, at least not yet. He had been too intent on whomever he was talking to. She peered to make sure that he was still safely on the street corner. He was just opposite, and now that the eddy of the crowd had left a little clear space around him, she saw with whom he was talking. It was a small, very small, shabby, nondescript man—possibly only a boy, so short he seemed. His back was toward her. His clothes hung upon him with an odd un-Anglo-Saxon air. He was foreign with a foreignness no country could explain—Italian, Portuguese, Greek—whatever he was, he was a strange foil to Harry, so bright and burnished.

The hack was turning. She realized with dismay that it was turning sharp around that very corner where they stood. Suppose Harry should chance to glance through its window and see Flora Gilsey sitting trembling within. The hack wheezed and crumped, and all at once she heard it scrape the curb. Then she was lost! She looked up brave in her desperation, ready to meet Harry's eyes. She saw the back of his head. For a moment it loomed directly above her, then it moved. He was separating from his companion. With one stride he vanished out of the square frame of the window, and there remained full fronting her, staring in upon her, the face of his companion.

Back flashed to her memory the goldsmith's shop—dull hues and odors all at once—and that wide unwinking stare that had fixed her from the other side of the counter. The blue-eyed Chinaman! In the glare of white light, in his terrible clearness and nearness, she knew him instantly.

The hack plunged forward, the face was gone. But she remained nerveless, powerless to move, frozen in her stupefaction, while her vehicle pursued its crazy course. It was clattering up Sutter street toward Kearney, where at this hour the town was widest awake, and the crowd was a crowd she knew. At any instant people she knew might be going in and out of the florists' shops and restaurants, or passing her in carriages. And what of Flora Gilsey in her morning dress and garden hat, in a night-hawk of a Telegraph Hill hack, flying through their midst like a mad woman? They were the least of her fears. She had forgotten them. The only thing that remained to her was the memory of Harry and the blue-eyed Chinaman together on the street corner.

She had been given a glimpse of that large scheme that Harry was carrying forward somewhere out of her sight—such a glimpse as Clara had given her in the rifling of her room, as Ella had shown in her hysterical revelation. Again she felt the threat of these ominous signs of danger, as a lone general at a last stand with his troops clustered at his back sees in front, and behind, on either side of him, the glitter of bayonets in the bushes.

She was in the midst of the tangled traffic of Kearney street. Swimming lights and crowds were all around her. She peered forth cautiously upon it. She saw a florid face, a woman she knew casually—and there her eyes fastened, not for the woman's brilliant presence, but for what she saw directly in front of it, thrown into relief upon its background—a short and shabby figure, foreign, equivocal, reticent, the figure of a blue-eyed Chinaman.

"Why, You Poor Child, What's Happened to You?"

He was standing still while the crowd flowed past him. This time he was alone. He seemed to be waiting, yet not to watch, as if he had already seen what he was expecting and knew that it must pass his way. It was uncanny, his reappearance, at a second interval of her route, standing as if he had stood there from the first, patient, expectant, motionless. It was worse than uncanny.

All at once an idea, wild and illogical enough, jumped up in her mind. Couldn't this miserable vehicle that was lumbering like a disabled bug move faster and rattle her on out of reach of the glare, the publicity, the threat of discovery, and, above all, of her discomforting notion?

She thrust her head far out and addressed the driver.

"Go as fast as you can, faster! and I'll give you twice what he gave you." The words rang so wildly to her own ears that she half expected the driver to peer down like an old bird of prey from his perch and demand her reason. But he made no sound or sign. It may have been that in his time he had heard even wilder requests than hers. He only sent his whip cracking forward to the ears of the lean horse, and the cab began to rattle like a mad thing.

Flora leaned back with a sigh of relief. The mere sensation of being borne along at such a rate, the sight of houses, lamp-posts, even people here and there, flitting away from the eye, unable to interrupt her course, or even to glimpse her identity, gave her a feeling of safety. The more she was getting into the residence part of the city, the more deserted the streets, the closer shut the windows of the houses, the more it seemed to her as if the night itself covered and abetted her flight. So swiftly she went it was only a wonder how the cab held together. She had never traveled more rapidly in her light and silent carriage. Now they whirled the corner and plunged at the steep rise of a cross street. Just above, over the crown of the hill, she saw the sky, moonless, blackish, spattered with stars. Then against it a little fluttering shape like a sentinel wisp—the only living thing in sight. It was incredible, impossible, horrible that he should be there, in front of her, waiting for her who had driven so fast—too fast, it had seemed, for human foot to follow. By what unimaginable route had he traveled? She was ready to believe he had flown over the housetops. And above all other horrors, why was he pursuing her?

The carriage was abreast the Chinaman now, and immediately he took up his trot, for a little while keeping up, dodging along between light and shadow, presently falling behind. At intervals she heard the pitter, pitter, pitter of his footsteps following; at intervals she lost the sound, and shadows would engulf the figure, and she would wait in a panic for its reappearance. For she knew it was there somewhere, on one side of the street or the other. But, oh, not to see it! To expect at any moment it might start up again—heaven knew where, perhaps at her very carriage window. Her unconscious hand was doubled to a fist upon her breast, fast closed upon the sapphire.

With all her body braced, she leaned and looked far backward, and far forward, and now for a long time saw nothing. The distance was empty. The glare of arc-lights showed her the shadows of her own progress—the shadow of her vehicle shooting huge and misshapen now on the cobbles, now along a blank wall, wheels, body and driver, all lurching like one; now heaped on each other, now tenuously drawn out, now twisting themselves into shapes the mind could not account for. For here, whirling the corner, the carriage seemed to waver and now between the wheels, fast twinkling, she saw a pair of legs. She leaned and looked, mesmerized with this grotesque appearance that it scarcely troubled her that all the way down the last long hill she knew it must be that a man was running at her wheel.

The warm lights of her house were just before her, offering succor, stiffening courage. It would be but a dash from the door of the cab to her own door. There was no second course, once the cab stopped. She felt that to lurk in its gloom would mean robbery, perhaps death. She thought without fear, but with an intense calculation. Her hand held the door at swing as the cab drew up. Before it should stop she must leap. She gathered her skirts and sprang—sprang clean to the sidewalk. The steps of her house rushed by her in her upward flight. Her bell pealed. She covered her eyes.

For the moment before Shima opened the door there was nothing but darkness and silence. She had never been so glad of anything in her life as of the kind, astute, yellow face he presented to her distressed appeal.

"Shima," she panted, "pay the cab; and if there's any one else there say that I'll call the police—no, no, send him away." There was no question or hesitation in Shima's obedience. Through the glass of the door she watched him descend upon his errand, until he disappeared over the edge of the illumination of the vestibule. She waited, dimly aware of voices going on beyond the curtains of the drawing room, but all her listening power was concentrated on the silence without—a silence that remained unbroken, and out of which Shima returned with the same imperturbable countenance.

"He wants ten dollars," she gasped. If that was all the Chinaman had followed her for! But her relief was momentary, for instantly Shima was back again.

"I gave him ten dollars, the cabman."

Now she gasped again. "Oh, the cabman! But the other one!" For an instant Shima seemed to hesitate; glancing past her shoulder as if there was something that he doubted behind her. Then as she still hung on his answer he brought it out in a lowered voice.

"Madam, there was no one else there."

CHAPTER XIX.

The Face in the Garden.

With her hand at her distressed forehead she turned, and saw, between the curtains of the drawing room, Harry, and behind him Clara, looking out at her with faces of amazement, and she fancied, horror, Harry came straight for her.

"Why, you poor child, what's happened to you?"

She gave him a look. She couldn't forget their scene in the red room, but the mixture of apprehension and real concern in his face went far toward melting her. She might even have told him something, at least a part of the truth, but for that other standing watching her from the drawing-room door. With Clara, there was nothing for it but to ignore her disordered hair, her hat in her hand, her ruffe torn and trailing on the floor.

She put on a splendid nonchalance, as if it were none of their business. "Oh, I am sorry if I kept you waiting."

It was Clara who spoke to her, past Harry's blank astonishment. "Why, we don't mind waiting a few moments more while you dress."

"I shan't have to dress." Such a statement Flora felt must amaze even Shima, waiting like an image on the threshold of the dining-room. But if these people were waiting to be amazed she felt herself equal to amazing them to the top of their expectations.

"Oh, but at least go up and let Marrika give you some pins," Clara protested, hurrying forward as if fairly to drive her.

"Thank you, no, this will do," Flora said. On one point she was quite clear. She wasn't going to leave those two together for a moment to discuss her plight; not till she could first get at Harry alone. Then and there she turned to the mirror and with her combs began to catch back and smooth the disorder of her hair, seeing all the while Clara's reflection hovering perturbed and vigilant in the background of her own.

While her hands were busy seeming to accommodate Clara, her mind was marshaled to Clara's unwitting. The only thing to do was to tell nothing. Let Clara spend her time in guessing. Unless by some wild chance she had seen Kerr in the garden she couldn't come near the truth of what had happened. But what was to be done with Harry? Harry was too close to her to be ignored.

At that dreadful dinner, where she sat a conscious frustrater of these two silent ones, glancing at Harry's face, she knew that if she didn't attack she would be attacked by him. It was here in the midst of the noiseless passings of Shima, watching Harry's suspicious glances flashing across the table at her strange disorder, that the idea occurred to her of a way out of it. She was bold enough to try a daring thrust at the mystery. If ever a hunter was to be led off on a false scent, Harry was that one. She was amazed at the sudden, fearless impulse that had sprung up in her. She wasn't even afraid to say to him under Clara's nose, "Harry, I want you to myself after dinner. Come up into the garden study."

He was very willing to follow her. She thought she detected in his alacrity something more than curiosity or concern. It seemed almost as if Harry was ashamed of that scene in the red room, and anxious to make it up with her. He even tried before they had reached the head of the stairs. "Oh, Flora—I say, Flora, I—"

But an explanation between them was the last thing she wanted just then. She fairly ran, leaving him panting in the wake of her airy skirts. For the first time since the thing began Clara was left out completely. Flora knew she was even left out of a possibility of listening at the keyhole. For the bright, tight, little room into which Harry followed her was approached by a square entry and a double door. The room itself overhung the garden as a ship's deck overhangs the sea. Leather books and long red curtains were the note of it. She and Harry had often been here together before.

He hadn't got his breath. He had hardly shut the door on them before she began. "Well, something has happened." She had his attention. His other purpose was arrested. "Oh, something extraordinary. I would have told you on the spot, only I thought you would rather Clara didn't know it."

"I? That left him staring. 'What have I to do with it?'"

At this she gave him a long look. "It was through you he ever had the chance of seeing me. I mean the blue-eyed Chinaman. He has followed me all the evening. He followed me here to the very door." Flora's array of facts fell so fast, so hard, so pointed, that for a moment they held him speechless in the middle of the room.

Any fleeting suspicion she might have had of his complicity in the Chinaman's pursuit vanished. He showed plain bewilderment. For a moment he was more at sea than herself. The next she saw the shadow of a thought so disturbing that it sharpened his ruddy face to harshness. He stepped toward her. "What did he say to you?" He loomed directly above her, threatening.

"Nothing. He didn't say anything. But I know he followed me quite to the house. I saw his shadow all the way down the hill."

Harry still breathed quickly. "Where—how did he come across you?"

She'd been prepared for the question. "I was driving down Sutter street and he saw me at the carriage window."

Harry stood tense, poised, catching everything as she tossed it off; then as if all at once he felt the full weight of the burden, "Lord!" he said, and let himself down heavily into a chair. It was plain in his helpless stare that he knew exactly what it all meant. Laying her hands on the high chair arms, leaning down so that she could look into his face, Flora made her thrust.

"What do you think he wants?" she gently asked. It was as if she would coax it out of him. His answer was correspondingly low and soft.

"It's that damned ring."

She heard her secret fear spoken aloud with such assurance that she waited, certain at the next moment Harry's voice would people the silence with all the facts that had so far escaped her. But when, after a moment of looking before him he did speak, he went back to the beginning, which they both knew.

"You know he didn't want to part with it in the first place."

"Yes, yes; but he did," Flora insisted.

"Well," he answered quickly, "but that was before—" He caught himself and went on with a scarcely perceptible break: "He may have had a better offer for it since."

He couldn't have put it more mildly, and yet that temperate phrase brought back to her in a flash a windy night full of raucous voices and the great figures in the paper that had covered half a page—the reward for the Crow Idol. Could it be that—that sum so overwhelming to human caution and human decency which Harry had cloaked by his grudging phrase "some better offer"? What else could he mean? And what else could the blue-eyed Chinaman mean by his strange pursuit of her?

"Some one must have wanted it awfully," Flora tried again, keeping step with his mild admission.

Harry covered her with an impressive stare. "There's something queer about that ring," he nodded to her. He was going to tell her at last! She gazed at him in expectation, but presently she realized that nothing more was coming. He had stopped at the beginning. She tried to urge him on.

"Queer, what do you mean?" She was feigning surprise.

He looked at her cautiously. "Why you must have noticed it yourself when we were at the shop. And now, to-night, his having followed you."

She could see him hesitate, choosing his words. She knew well enough her own fear of saying too much—but, what was Harry afraid of? Did he suspect her feeling for Kerr? Was that why he was holding back, leaving out, giving her the small, expurgated version of what he knew. She tried again, making it plainer.

"You think the ring is something he ought not to have had; something that belongs somewhere else?"

He looked away from her, around the room, as if to pick up his answer from some of the corners. "Well, anyway, it's lucky we waited about that setting," he said with quick irrelevance. "If you're going to be annoyed in this way you'd better let me have it."

Why hadn't she thought of that! It was what any man might say, after hearing such a story as hers, yet it was the last thing she had thought of, and the last thing she wanted.

"Oh, leave it with me," she quavered, "at least till you're sure!"

"Oh, no!" He gave his head a quick, decided shake. "If something should come out, you wouldn't want to be mixed up in it."

"Then why not give it back to the Chinaman?" she tried him.

"Oh, that's ridiculous." He was in a passion. His darkening eyes, his swelling nostrils, his aspect so out of proportion to her mild and almost playful suggestion, frightened her. He saw it and instantly his mood dropped to mere irritation. "Oh, Flora, don't make a scene about it. This thing has been on my mind for days—the thought that you had the ring. I was afraid I had no business to let you have it in the first place, and what you've told me to-night has clean knocked me out. I don't know what I'm saying. Come, let me have it; and if there's anything queer about the business, at least we'll get it cleared up."

But, smiling, she retreated before him.

"Why, Flora," he argued, half laughing, but still with that dry end of irritation in his voice, "what on earth do you want to keep the thing for?"

By this time she backed against the window and faced him. "Why, it's my engagement ring."

He looked at her. She couldn't tell whether he was readiest to laugh or rage.

"You gave it to me for that," she pleaded. "Why shouldn't I keep it, until you give me a real reason for giving it up? If you really know something, who don't you tell me?" She was sure she had him there; but he burst out at last:

Lover's Wedding Cake.

Four pounds of flour of love, half a pound of buttered youth, half a pound of good looks, half a pound of sweet temper, half a pound of self-forgetfulness, half a pound of powdered wits, half an ounce of dry humor, two tablespoonfuls of sweet argument, half a pint of rippling laughter, half a wine-glassful of common sense.

Then put the flour of love, good looks and sweet temper into a well-furnished house. Beat the butter of youth to a cream. Mix together blindness of faults, self-forgetfulness, powdered wits, dry humor into sweet argument, then add them to the above. Pour in gently rippling laughter and common sense. Work it together until all is well mixed, then bake gently forever.

Expecting Too Much.

It was a cold, raw day, but the Nevversweats and the Fearnoughts were playing a game of ball on the prairie, just the same.

The pitcher of the Nevversweats, his fingers half frozen, failed dismally in getting the balls over the plate.

“Aw,” said the captain, “I tought ye wust one o’ dese cold weather pitchers!”

“I am,” said the slab artist, blowing on his numb digits to warm them, “but I ain’t a ice pitcher, blame ye!”

USING UP TONGUE

How the Ends Unfit for Slicing May Be Creamed and Made Most Appetizing.

To many housewives cold boiled tongue does not present itself as a left-over susceptible to metamorphosis. If no longer slightly for slicing it must be discarded.

Yet to the initiated a cold boiled end which would not be appetizing sliced is most piquant when creamed.

Cut the meat into small bits, removing all skin and gristle and heat up in a cream sauce. Serve on rounds of toast or fried bread or in individual dishes with bread and butter sandwiches.

In suburban places where fresh bouillons are not always obtainable on short notice a good recipe for a home-made sweet is often treasure trove to the house mother.

Peppermint is an excellent digestive in addition to its tastiness, and in some form is universally liked.

Peppermint drops with fruit are something of a novelty and are not difficult to accomplish in the home kitchen.

In a quarter cup of lukewarm water soak one ounce of gum tragacanth until it becomes tender. Wring dry in a straining cloth and knead with the hand, adding five drops of oil of peppermint. Continue to work it until light and elastic. Work in little by little two and a half cups of confectioners' sugar and one-half cupful each of dates, raisins and candied peels (orange and lemon equal quantity), mixed and chopped fine.

Roll out on a marble slab, pastry board or strip of canvas, using the sugar in lieu of flour. Roll to the thickness of half a dollar, stamp out and place on waxed paper in a warm room until dry.

LAUNDERING THE FRILLS

Row of Basting Stitches Run Near Outer Edge Saves Much Trouble in Ironing.

Before putting in the laundry the one-side plaited frills and frilled collars which are so pretty and popular and yet so hard to “do up,” run a row of basting stitches about an inch from the outer edge. That will hold the plaits in position while washing and will save time and trouble later in ironing. This is especially true if you are not the proud possessor of a patent plaiting iron.

These frills, by the way, should, when possible, be made separate from the blouse and buttoned, hooked or pinned on, so that they do not have to go so often to the tub. They really do not get dirty so quickly as the more exposed parts of the blouse, and they are a great nuisance usually to wash and iron, even with the precaution mentioned. If you buy a ready-made blouse with frills stitched on, it is an easy matter to rip them off and supply buttons and buttonholes.

A Breakfast Help.

After finishing the supper work, prepare in so far as it is possible, the next morning's breakfast. If you are to have ham or bacon, slice, trim, and have it ready for the pan or broiler. The potatoes are sliced or diced, the bread cut and trimmed ready for the toaster, and the coffee is ground and placed in the coffee pot, securely covered so as to preserve the flavor. Then lay the table and cover it carefully. If any member of the family is to carry a lunch box, fill it carefully the night before, and having wrapped each article carefully in waxed paper, it is found to be perfectly fresh and appetizing when opened. All this may be done in about fifteen minutes in the evening, and the relief it affords in the morning can be imagined.

Crab Apple Preserves and Jelly.

Parboil the crab apples, coring the larger ones but leaving the smaller ones, as they are, cores, skins and stems. Make a rich syrup, allowing eight pounds of sugar to a quart of water, and dissolve in this one teaspoonful of citric acid crystals, or add, if preferred, two tablespoonfuls lemon juice. Heat carefully, and when clear and thick put in the apples and cook gently for a few moments, watching carefully that the apples do not get so soft as to spoil their shape. A little ciner may be added for flavoring if desired, but in this case omit the lemon or citric acid.

To Clean Soiled Velvet.

First try spending thoroughly with gasoline, using a little good white soap. Then rinse off with clean gasoline. Keep away from the fire during the process. Should this method fail, wash with warm water and soap, and, while still damp, press the right side of the velvet with a warm iron, moving it with the pile. Be very particular in regard to the heat of the iron. If too hot the velvet will be scorched and if too cool soil is apt to form. The ironing is really panning the velvet.

Tomato Jam.

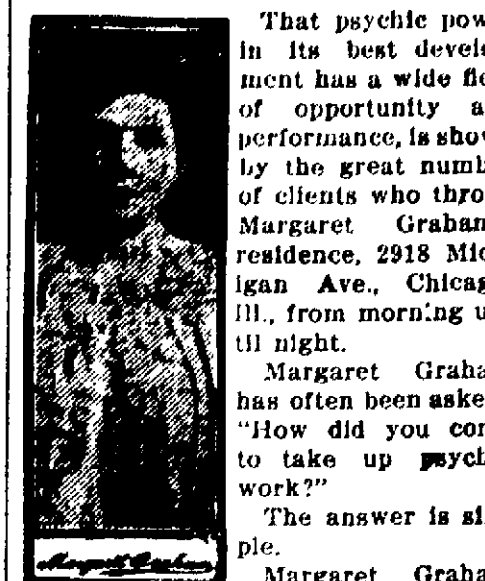

Stew one-half peck tomatoes, skim, and when cooked thoroughly add a pint of the juice to a pint of sugar. Slice six lemons thin and, if liked, add a few sticks of cinnamon. Boil until a spoonful on a saucer will jelly. Pour in glasses; cover with paper soaked in brandy. This is economical.

Fried Oysters.

For delicious fried oysters, dip the oysters in stiff mayonnaise and cracker crumbs twice—the crumbs last and fry in deep fat.

A FAMOUS PSYCHIC

How She Became the Leading Exponent of Psychic Phenomena.

That psychic power in its best development has a wide field of opportunity and performance, is shown by the great number of clients who throng Margaret Graham's residence, 2918 Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill., from morning until night.

Margaret Graham has often been asked: “How did you come to take up psychic work?”

The answer is simple. Margaret Graham was born possessed of psychic power developed to a marvelous degree, so that from early childhood she could reveal secrets of the past and future.

As a child wonder she was not the success that she now is, because psychic phenomena were not as well understood then as they are now.

In a short time she gained the enviable distinction of being “America's foremost exponent of psychic phenomena,” and there has never been anyone to dispute the title.

With each succeeding year, the psychic powers of this wonderful woman become stronger, until, as has been said of her, she is the mistress of fate and the revealer of secrets, that are but dumb mysteries to those of ordinary clay.

Margaret Graham makes a friend of everyone who consults her. Her charming personality, to which psychic power contributes in no small degree, inspires confidence which is fully sustained by her wonderful revelations.

Those who are in trouble, or who are torn by doubt or suspicion, who need counsel on any subject whatsoever, or advice regarding business matters, should at once consult Margaret Graham.

THOUGHT SHE HAD PRACTICED

Frenchman's Suspicion Really Something of a Compliment to the Men of America.

Claude Grahame White, the English aviator, praised, at a dinner in New York, the good fellowship of Americans.

“The American woman is regarded abroad as an angel,” he said. “The man is admittedly a good fellow, but an angel he is far from being.”

“You've heard of the Frenchman, perhaps, whose sweetheart spent the summer in America? After her return the poor Frenchman seemed quite blue.”

“What's the matter with you?” a friend asked.

“I am worried,” the other muttered, “about my fiancée. You see, since her return from America she kisses so much better than she used to.”

CURED SIX YEARS.

No Fear of Further Kidney Trouble.

Mrs. Josiah Clinker, State St., Tama, Iowa, says: “My first symptom of kidney trouble was intense pain in my back. This grew worse until I ached in every part of my body. I rested poorly and was so stiff in the morning I found it hard to dress. I became tired easily, lost flesh and was in a bad way. I was well pleased with the quick relief Doan's Kidney Pills gave me. They drove the pains away and restored my kidneys to a normal condition. I have been free from kidney trouble for six years.”

Absolutely smokeless and odorless you do not have to work close to the stove, which is usually far from the window. You can work where you wish, and be warm. You can work on dull winter days in the full light near the window, without being chilled to the bone.

The Perfection Oil Heater quickly gives heat, and with one filling of the font burns steadily for nine hours, without smoke or smell. An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. The filler-cap, put in like a cork in a bottle, is attached by a chain. This heater has a cool handle and a damper top.

The Perfection Oil Heater has an automatic-locking flame spreader, which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back, so the wick can be quickly cleaned. The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged and can be unscrewed in an instant for reworking. The Perfection Oil Heater is finished in japan or nickel, is strong, durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental.

He Was a Boston Boy.

"Your little boy must be very intelligent," said a visitor to a Boston school teacher whose five-year-old son was turning Greek words with building blocks.

"Intelligent!" exclaimed the proud parent. "He is phenomenally gifted. As an example of his early erudition, what do you suppose was the first words he ever spoke?"

"Papa and 'mamma'."

"Stuff and nonsense!" ejaculated the father, in a tone of disgust. "Why, the day he was 12 months old he suddenly laid down his alphabet and said to me: 'Father, the longer I live the more indubitable proofs I perceive that there is in Boston as much culture to the square inch as there ever was in the ambient area of ancient Athens!'"

Strong Preaching.

The Minister's eight-year-old daughter was returning with her parents from church, where the district superintendent had that morning occupied the pulpit.

"Oh, father," asked the little girl, her face alive with enthusiasm, "Don't you think Brother C. is a very strong preacher, I do?"

"Gratified by this evidence of unusual intelligence on the part of his offspring, the minister eagerly inquired into her reasons for her statement."

"Oh," replied the little miss, artlessly, "didn't you see how the dust rose when he stamped his feet?"—Judge.

STOPPED SHORT Taking Tonics, and Built Up on Right Food.

The mistake is frequently made of trying to build up a worn-out nervous system on so-called tonics—drugs.

New material from which to rebuild wasted nerve cells is what should be supplied, and this can be obtained only from proper food.

"Two years ago I found myself on the verge of a complete nervous collapse, due to overwork and study, and to illness in the family," writes a Wisconsin young mother.

"My friends became alarmed because I grew pale and thin and could not sleep nights. I took various tonics prescribed by physicians, but their effects were off shortly after I stopped taking them. My food did not seem to nourish me and I gained no flesh nor blood."

"Reading of Grape-Nuts, I determined to stop the tonics and see what a change of diet would do. I ate Grape-Nuts four times a day, with cream and drank milk also, went to bed early after eating a dish of Grape-Nuts."

"In about two weeks I was sleeping soundly. In a short time gained 20 pounds in weight and felt like a different woman. My little daughter, whom I was obliged to keep out of school last spring on account of chronic catarrh has changed from a thin, pale, nervous child to a rosy, healthy girl and has gone back to school this fall."

"Grape-Nuts and fresh air were the only agents used to accomplish the happy results."

KITE FLYING BY GOVERNMENT EXPERTS

WITH the present world-wide interest in aviation has come a corresponding stimulus of interest in kite flying—not the ordinary sort of kite flying that we all indulged in when we were boys, although that has many devotees—but scientific kite flying. Both in England and America daring experimenters have accomplished wonders with man-lifting kites, which when sent up tandem have demonstrated their ability to lift human beings to the clouds quite as neatly as do motor-driven airships. Then, too, Alexander Graham Bell, the inventor of the telephone, has these past few years performed some wonderful experiments with a new type of kite made up of triangular cells and hopes yet to solve the problem of aerial navigation with a sky craft developed along this line.

While the man-lifting kites have thus been developing to the point of undreamed-of possibilities another branch of scientific kite flying has been making like progress. This embraces the use of kites for studying the conditions of the upper air and obtaining data to be used in forecasting the weather. Various institutions all over the world have been using kites in this way, but the lead has been taken by the United States government, thanks to the facilities which it enjoys at its unique new weather observatory in northern Virginia, not far from the West Virginia line. The Mount Weather observatory, as this new kite station is officially designated, is designed especially for the exploration of the upper air by means of kites and balloons and it is located on top of a peak nearly 2,000 feet high in an isolated part of the Blue Ridge mountains—that which no better location could be imagined for this class of work.

There are not many buildings at this kite-flying outpost, but a substantial stone structure has been provided for use as a kite house. This is the headquarters for a corps of five men who devote all their time to this branch of aerial work. More than two dozen kites are constantly kept on hand and in readiness for use and included in this equipment are samples of all the different kinds of kites which have been used by any of the foreign governments that have engaged in scientific kite flying. However, Uncle Sam's experts have developed some designs of kites that are superior to anything known abroad, and particularly have they evolved a wonderful new type of kite that can be sent aloft in the fiercest gales that sweep over the Virginia mountains. The ordinary kite will fly in any wind with a velocity of ten miles per hour or more, but is not adapted to use when the wind exceeds 25 miles per hour. However, this new style kite, which weighs but eight pounds and has a lifting surface of 55 feet, has made successful flights more than a mile in height when the wind was blowing a gale of 40 miles an hour.

The government experts have sent up kites at Mount Weather as high as 22,000 feet, which means, of course, several miles. Of course no rope or string can be used for such kite flying, but wire must be employed. The wire is wound upon an immense reel of forged steel and the kite flying is in reality done by machinery, this reel being operated by a three-horsepower electric motor. When it is desired to haul down or draw in a kite this reel is set in motion at any speed desired. The steel drum has capacity for carrying 50,000 feet of piano wire, which is much more than would be required for any kite flight that will ever be attempted. The object of Uncle Sam's kite flying is of course to explore the upper air and to that end automatically operated recording instruments are attached to every kite sent up. These bring down records not only of the altitude attained by the kite but of the temperature at various altitudes and other information of the greatest value to the scientists in their study of the atmosphere that envelops the earth. The remarkable development of the aeroplane is the greatest wonder of the century. Yet the airman is impatient and his cry now is for greater speed. In speed he sees the solution of his greatest problems. Gradually it has dawned upon him that the air is the ideal element for high-speed traffic—that through the air, before very long, speeds will be attained which are possible with vehicles on land or ships on the sea. To the makers of engines the airman says, "Give me more power, which spells speed." To the builders of aeroplanes he cries, "Construct me planes capable of the maximum of speed."

And the speed of aeroplanes has been creeping up. At first it was 35 miles an hour. Then came 40. Soon this was left behind. Round prepared aeroplanes a pace of 45 and 50 miles an hour was attained. Nor did the seeking of speed end here. With racing monoplane a rate of 55 and 60 miles an hour was possible. Not satisfied with this, pilots have added mile by mile, until the latest record is 66 miles an hour.

In response to an inquiry along this line an expert recently said: "Personally I believe that this is only the beginning of the speeds that aeroplanes will be able to attain. Some one was discussing this vitally interesting aspect of airmanship with me only the other day. He asked the question, 'At what rate will aeroplanes be flying through the air in a comparatively short space of time?' My answer was, 'In six months I fully expect that a monoplane will be registering speeds of 100 miles an hour.' Friends of mine who are experts upon the scientific aspects of airmanship predict that eventually speeds of 200 and even 300 miles an hour will be possible. At this one's imagination is apt to reel. But this much is certain: If the flying machine is to become of real importance and not remain a sporting toy it will need to be speedier than any method of transit on land."

The aeroplane engine is the crux of the situation. Upon its development—rapid or slow—depends also the development of airmanship. Fortunately for the new science in which we are all so interested, the flying machine motor is already making quite extraordinary strides. As a well-known maker remarked to me the other day, "Each motor which we turn out nowadays marks a step up a ladder of progress." And the engines for aircraft are not only being made more reliable, but they also weigh less than they did at first for each horsepower of energy produced.

UNCLE SAM AS A KITE FLYER

"KNOCKED DOWN" FOR TRANSPORTATION

ATTACHING AUTOMATIC RECORDING INSTRUMENTS TO A KITE

"This is all-important in this respect alone engineers have been achieving results of late which would have been declared absolutely impossible by experts a few years ago. From my point of view, as a pilot of aeroplanes, the improvement in engines has been astonishing. Last year, although long flights were occasionally made, the undertaking of a cross-country journey was a matter of considerable uncertainty. Now, however, although our engines are still admittedly imperfect, one can fly from point to point with a growing confidence.

"Although much of the future of airmanship is still in doubt, the establishment of regular air stations, in the vicinity of large towns is an innovation which will soon be an accomplished fact. The idea of the 'air station' is simple. It will, roughly, correspond to the garage for the motor car. There will be a large, smooth open space for machines to start from and also to alight upon. There will be a number of sheds in which air craft will be housed. There will be repair shops; also depots in which oil and petrol will be stored. The airman, studying a special map before he starts upon a long cross-country flight, will locate the position of the various air stations en route and halt at some of them—filling up his tanks, having his engine overhauled, and perhaps garaging his machine for the night in one of the sheds provided.

"Already—a convincing proof of the development of flight—international authorities are discussing seriously the immediate laying down of regular 'airways.' Simply described, an airway will direct the passage of air craft over a given tract of land when in flight from city to city or from one country to another. These airways—several have already been provisionally mapped out in England—will make it incumbent upon pilots to fly their craft over sparsely populated tracts of country whenever possible, and will also obviate flying over towns.

"We do not want to hamper airmanship with too many rules, but danger to the people on the earth must be obviated, and the risk of involuntary descents in crowded districts must be avoided. The rights of private property must be considered also; it is clear that machines cannot be allowed to descend haphazard just where they like.

"So far the whole attitude toward flying has been to encourage it, a striking contrast to the condemnation of the railway train when it was introduced. This toleration the airman must do nothing to undermine. Motoring would not have been discredited in many people's eyes had it not been for the 'road hog.' We must have no 'air hogs.' As aeroplane owners increase many perplexing problems will arise. What is wanted is a sensible code of rules, framed in the public interest by practical authorities and tactfully enforced before there is possibility of any outcry against the new sport.

Weeks—Why are you stopping? You didn't run over that man. Swiftly—I know it. I just want to see what ails the steering gear.

AN INTOLERABLE ITCHING

"Just about two years ago, some form of humor appeared on my scalp. The beginning was a slight itching but it grew steadily worse until, when I combed my hair, the scalp became raw and the ends of the comb-teeth would be wet with blood. Most of the time there was an intolerable itching, in a painful, burning way, very much as a bad, raw burn, if deep, will itch and smart when first beginning to heal. Combing my hair was positive torture. My hair was long and tangled terribly because of the blood and scabs. This continued growing worse and over half my hair fell out. I was in despair, really afraid of becoming totally bald.

"Sometimes the pain was so great that, when partially awake, I would scratch the worst places so that my finger-tips would be bloody. I could not sleep well and, after being asleep a short time, that awful stinging pain—would commence and then I would wake up nearly wild with the torture. A neighbor said it must be salt rheum. Having used Cuticura Soap merely as a toilet soap before, I now decided to order a set of the Cuticura Remedies—Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills. I used them according to directions for perhaps six weeks, then left off, as the disease seemed to be eradicated, but toward spring, eighteen months ago, there was a slight return of the scalp humor. I commenced the Cuticura treatment at once, so had very little trouble. On my scalp I used about one half a cake of Cuticura Soap and half a box of Cuticura Ointment in all. The first time I took six or seven bottles of Cuticura Pills and the last time three bottles—neither an expensive or tedious treatment. Since then I have had no scalp trouble of any kind. Standing up, with my hair unbound, it comes to my knees and had it not been for Cuticura I should doubtless be wholly bald.

"This is a voluntary, unsolicited testimonial and I take pleasure in writing it, hoping my experience may help someone else. Miss Lillian Brown, R. F. D. 1, Liberty, Me., Oct. 29, 1909."
